Charles F. Berry, 2d, who admitted stealing $497,275 from various estates for which he was trustee, was placed on probation to-day by Judge Harris in the Superior Court.

This disposal of the case was made on the recommendation of District Attorney Hill, after Berry had pleaded guilty.

Berry was confidential clerk for the late Francis Baleh, a leading Boston lawyer. After Balch's death Berry was appointed trustee for several estates of which Balch had had charge.

What followed is described in the recommendation on the case made to-day by District Attorney Hill:

"While he (Berry) had been an excellent subordinate, he was not fitted for the responsibilities of such work. He made a bad investment in one of the estates of which he had charge and lost money in consequence. Instead of admitting the fact, he took money from another estate and speculated, in hopes of regaining the money lost. His speculation was unsuccessful and he resorted to other estates. From this point on his affairs became involved in hopeless confusion. * * * He fled to England."

In April, 1905, he was indicted in seventy-four counts. The principal losers by Berry were given as follows:

James Sayle, $143,290; Francis E. Foote, $15,000; G. B. Haskell, $18,500; Eugene C. Newell, $182,938; G. L. Lambert, $73,993; C. M. Hisley, $15,500; M. R. Stevenson, $15,502; Annie H. Coney, $24,953; A. C. Page, $4,696; E. C. Guild, $7,049.

In 1906 Berry returned and surrendered himself. He was released under $15,000 bail. He worked with Receiver Colt to straighten out the affairs of the estates he had tangled up.

Counsel for the defrauded estates have represented that much work still remains for Berry to do on these estates, and that it is essential he should be at liberty so they can use his services freely.

Concerning Berry's intentions District Attorney Hill says in his recommendation:

"No part of the money which the defendant stole was used by him for himself or even for the support of his family, but was all applied in a series of misguided attempts to repair the consequences of his mistake. His action seems to be not that of a man with criminal tendencies so much as that of a man of inferior calibre entrusted with responsibility to which he was mentally and morally unequal. While crimes such as those of which this defendant is guilty are of a peculiarly heinous nature, involving as they do not only stealing, but stealing from people whom the criminal is peculiarly bound to serve with fidelity, and while such crimes should properly be punished with severity, I feel that the circumstances here are such as to take this case out of the ordinary rule."

Charged with the larceny of twenty cents, ten from Ida McCulligan and ten from Margaret Keon, George F. Adams was to-day sent to the House of Correction on Deer Island for six months by Judge William H. Preble in the Charlestown District Court.

Adams, who was arrested on Wednesday, told the police that he had a wife and three little children who were dependent on his labors. He said he came from St. Paul, Minn.

Policeman Fred Claus saw Adams going from door to door in Charlestown begging. He pretended to be raising money with which to bury a woman, the mother of infant twins. Adams's arrest followed and his story disproved.

To-day the two women appeared against him. Adams denied guilt, but Judge Preble passed him along to the House of Correction, sentencing him to three months for each dime he had got from the women.

WHITE FAINTS IN UPROAR IN LEGISLATURE

Carried on Shoulders by Representatives When Senators Attack Him for Insinuating They Were Corrupt.

A move in the Senate to censure Representative Norman W. White for criticism of the upper House caused unprecedented scenes in the House to-day.

When the news came from the Senate there was an uproar. Members crowded around Mr. White, assuring him that they would stick with him. He refused to say anything. Tears filled his eyes. He went out of the House chamber to one of the telephone boothes in the corridor and fainted with the receiver at his ear.

Representative Howard Muldrun of Dorchester and two or three others carried Mr. White from the booth and revived him. Members poured out of the House and crowded around him. A half dozen mounted him on their shoulders and started to carry him into the House with lusty cheering members following.

When they reached the door to the House chamber the applause and cheering was thunderous. White broke away from his friends and ran into the House chamber with tears streaming down his cheeks. Later he walked to his seat and the House broke forth in one of the most uproarious scenes ever known on Beacon Hill.

Cheers Ten Minutes.

Members climbed on their chairs and The cheering lasted for ten minutes. Representative Ernest E. Hobson of Taunton, chairman pro-tem, pounded his gavel in vain. The House refused to stop cheering. The feeling of the House against the Senate is intense. The breach between the two branches is wider than ever.

Mr. White gave out an interview which was prompted by the Senate's action in referring to the next General Court, Mr. White's resolve for the appointment of a commission to investigate the State Library.

The following unusual order was offered by Senator Francke W. Dickinson of Springfield in the Senate when it convened at noon:

The Senate Order.

"Ordered, that the attention of the Speaker and the House of Representatives be respectfully called to an alleged interview with Representative Norman H. White of Brookline in the Boston Journal on April 23, wherein the action of the Senate upon a certain bill is designated as 'in line with what might be expected from a corrupt city council,' and where the following paragraph likewise appears:

"'The time will come in Massachusetts when underhand and unfair methods to smother matters of public interest will meet with a righteous storm of disapproval.' Senators Potters, Treadway and Shaw have stated that at some future time ——— they will be apt to get unanimous consent to reconsider this smothered action on their part. Such an excuse by the President of the Senate and others should be taken for what it is worth.'

"Ordered, that the Senate considers these statements from a member of the coordinate branch, if correctly quoted, as improper and unwarranted reflection upon the body itself and upon its members as individuals, and it respectfully calls the attention of the honorable House to the matter in order that it may take such action thereon as it may deem fitting, in view of the continued maintainence of the courtesies between the two branches and the members thereof."

Action Put Off.

Senator Greenwood of Gardner, when the order was read, moved to postpone action on it till next Monday. The motion prevailed.

Senator Dickinson who offered the order to-day said:

"I assume entire responsibility for this order. It is not true as has been intimated that President Treadway is behind the order. If the House agrees with White in this matter as their demonstration just now would indicate way, so much the worse for the House."

WHAT WHITE SAID THAT ANGERED THE SENATE

"The citizens of this Commonwealth shall know that this so-called library bill has been dealt with in a manner which requires most careful scrutiny. The legislative action has been in line with what might be expected from a corrupt city council, not by a Senate.

"The time will come in Massachusetts when underhanded and unfair methods to smother bills will meet with a storm of disapproval."

"JORDAN TO DIE IN 3 YEARS"

Dr. George F. Jelly, conceded to be the leading authority on mental troubles in New England, testified to-day that Chester S. Jordan is suffering from epilepsy and from an incurable disease of the brain.

The noted alienist testified that he did not believe Jordan understood the nature of the crime he is charged with when he attacked his wife, nor had he moral control of himself to prevent it.

Just before Dr. Jelly was called by the defence in Jordan's trial for the murder of his wife, Dr. Frank W. Page declared that Jordan could not live over three years at best, as he has a brain years at best, as he has general paresis.

Admissions by Alienist.

Put through a severe cross-examination by District Attorney Higgins, Dr. Page made admissions that the State regard as important. He declared that Jordan did not know the difference between right and wrong, that his act of September 1 (the alleged killing of his wife) did not indicate insanity, and that some epileptics are sane.

Dr. Page testified that he believed the story Jordan told to the alienists, and declared that he thought he was suffering from "epileptic frenzy" when he attacked his wife. The doctor changed this testimony, however, when District Attorney Higgins asked if in such a frenzy Jordan would not have beaten his wife's head to a pulp, and if in would not be likely in that condition to have hacked his wife's head off. The doctor thought he would.

LURED BOSTON GIRL AWAY; GETS 3 YEARS

NEW YORK, April 30.—Grace Price, arrested in Chinatown with fifteen-year-old Agatha Pickard, who had run away from her house, No. 3 Quincy street, Dorchester, Mass., was arraigned in the night court, and Magistrate Barlow sent her to the Hedford Reformatory for three years. When arrested the girl said her name was West, but her father, John Price, a letter carrier, was in court. He said that the girl's mother died three years ago, and that she had been wayward and resisted attempts to reform her. She was a victim of drugs, he said, and had been arrested before.

CHILDREN IN SHANTY SENT TO A HOME

By order of Judge Grosse in the Indiana District Court here, Albert S. Sharp, twelve years old, and Catherine V. Sharp, ten, children of Henry Sharp of Whitney avenue, Needham, were committed to the Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Boston. R. J. Loring, agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, testified that he found the children living in a shanty.

BOTH RED SOX AND DOVES GAMES OFF

President Taylor early surrendered to the weather man to-day and called off the Red Sox game with Washington at the Huntington Avenue grounds.

In New York, where the Doves were scheduled to play Brooklyn, it rained all the forenoon, and the game was ca-

The rain extends all over the East, and in the West it was reported cloudy and cold, making baseball contests doubtful.

MATTHEWS WON'T GIVE UP THE RECORDS

Ex-Mayor Nathan Matthews, chairman of the defunct Finance Commission, positively refuses to deliver to the city clerk any of the private stenographic reports and records of the investigating body which were not made public and were retained by him after the commission passed officially out of existence.

The ex-Mayor's refusal was contained in a communication received to-day by President Joseph J. Corbett of the Council, and Chairman Brand of the Board of Aldermen, who requested that he deliver the papers, desired in accordance with an order passed by the City Council.

He says in his communication that he is advised that he has no legal right to deliver these papers to the city clerk as requested, and that if he had the legal right he feels that it would be grossly improper to do so.

He says further:

"Much of this material was given to the commission by its agents upon the distinct promise that it would be treated as confidential and its origin not disclosed. Much of it consists of charges made against individuals, which charges were found by the commission or its agents to be unsubstantiated or not sufficiently proven to warrant its publication or any finding by the commission based thereon."

Chairman Brand stated to-day that no definite plo nof action had been undertaken yet, but it was his opinion that the matter would be referred to the corporation counsel, with instructions to apply for a writ of mandamus or any legal action that could be undertaken to accomplish the delivery of the papers.

8 LIVES LOST IN FIRE BLACK HAND STARTED

NEW YORK, April 30.—Eight persons, of whom five were children under eight years old, were killed, and fourteen were injured, some of them fatally, to-day in an incendiary fire that trapped twenty families in the tenement at No. 37 Spring street and partly destroyed the building. The people in the tenement became panic-stricken when they found escape cu toff and the flames gaining headway upward through the house. The blaze was started by blackmailers who had demanded $1,000 from one of the tenants in the house.

Women flung their babies from upper windows in their hysteria and five of them were missed by firemen and police below. Many were rescued in thrilling exhibitions of daring by the linemen and the firemen.

The police and firemen who rushed up into the burning building as soon as they were able to force their way through the wall of fire and smoke belching from the lower floors discovered that kerosene oil had been spread through the main stairway. The incendiary, setting fire to this murderous trail, cut off all escape through the main entrance.

To make matters worse, when the injured were removed to the Mulberry street station in ambulances summoned from four hospitals, the surgeons found that there was no water. It was discovered that the water had been cut off in the station for the past eight days. This was because the sewer is being lowered on account of the building of the loop subway from the Williamsburg to the Brooklyn bridge. The surgeons were compelled to get all the water they needed from buildings nearby.

The fire started with an explosion near the fifth floor of the tenement. This was followed by bursts of flame from the front fourth and fifth story windows, but served to arouse the twenty families in the house.

STORM KILLS 50; LOSS UP IN MILLIONS

Fifty lives have been lost in the fierce wind and snow storm which is raging in all parts of the country. Hundreds have been injured and the property loss reaches into the millions.

For the sixth time this year the cyclone belt of Mississippi, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas and adjacent States has been swept by a series of cyclones. Forty to fifty are dead. At Golden, Missouri, four were killed, twelve injured; at Horn Lake, Mississippi, four killed, a score injured; at Young's Crossing, Tennessee, five killed, many injured; at Lock, Tennessee, the entire village was obliterated; in Henderson, three were killed.

Town May Be Gone.

Serious damage is reported from Marion, Ark., and it is believed a number of persons have been killed in that country about there. The wires are still down and nothing has been learned as yet. Hillsboro, Ky., is reported destroyed.

The storm has left death and ruin all over the middle West. Snow has been falling over the Northwest. Floods are endangering life in Wisconsin.

Tornados and cyclones here done the greatest damage in the South and in Missouri.

Boston is getting its share to-day of the general wind, snow and rain storm, which has caused death and disaster through the country.

The wind is blowing thirty-two miles an hour off Block Island.

The storm to-day is central over the Great Lakes. But it runs as far South as Tennessee and as far West as Manitoba. There is snow in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The coldest spot in New England is Eastport, Me., at 30 above. The very chilliest spot in the whole North American weather map is Edmonton, British North-West. There it is only 8 above zero.

New West, as usual, holds the record for heat—82 above.

WOMAN'S BODY NAILED TO CROSS FLOATS BY HER SIDE

MESSINA, April 30.—The river that empties into the sea here is still carries down the bodies of dead Carabinieri from the scene of the massacre. Among the ghastly flotsam of to-day was the mutilated body of a woman clad only in a chemise.

100 DEAD, 2,000 INJURED BY CYCLONE

ST. LOUIS, April 30.—Reports from the cyclone zone in Arkansas and Tennessee make it plain to-day certain that the number of dead will reach 100 and the injured 2,000. The greatest damage was done in Mississippi county,

SAVES 8 FROM BAD SCALDING

MANSET, Me., April 30.—With the engine running wild and the main steam pipe broken a few minutes later, the three of the crew of eight men on the passenger steamer Tremont, which plies between Bangor and Manset, were imperilled until the engineer, William Hall, succeeded at considerable personal risk in reaching and closing the main valve on the boiler. There were no passengers aboard.

The steamer, in command of Capt. George Baker of Brewer, had just made the landing at McKinley, and was leaving for Southwest harbor and this place. When opposite Long Ledge the coupling on the shaft broke and the engine ran wild. Before it could be shut down, the main steam pipe and the exhaust pipe were broken filling the engine room and that part of the steamer with steam. It was considered a wonder that none of the crew were scalded.

BOSTON BOAT ASHORE.

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., April 30.—In trying to enter the mouth of the Thomaston River on her way to Pleasant Point the schooner Region of Boston went aground on Cranberry Island bar. The vessel rested on a sandy bottom and her master, Captain Jere Black, who telephoned here for a tug, believed she was uninjured and that she could be pulled off at high water.

STEERAGE RUSH FROM IRELAND

When the immigration inspectors received the steerage list of the Cunard liner Ivernia to-day they were surprised to find that of the 1,900 passengers 800 were Irish and 350 English. This is said to be the largest list of immigrants from Great Britain that has arrived in Boston for ten years. Usually the bulk of the steerage list comes from other parts of Europe.

Nearly all the newcomers will make their homes in or around Boston. The inspection required an extra detail of police from tuition 7 to keep back all the relatives and friends that wanted to be the first to bid them welcome.

STEAMER SINKS; MEN ESCAPE OVER ICE

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., April 30.—The sinking of an unknown steamship about 400 feet long in Whitefish Bay was reported to-day. Captain Boyce of the steamship George W. Peavey reported that the crew of the sinking steamship were seen walking over the ice to another vessel.

Isn't that prophesy worth something, boys and girls? Wouldn't it be worth all your efforts to feel that you had accomplished such a foothold? Had gained such a position in the eyes of the community? HAMMERSTEIN PLANS GRAND OPERA TRUST

The prompt offer on the part of Oscar Hammerstein in London to raise $1,000,000 to be put with $1,000,000 of T. Q. Ochs's Armour or anyone else, for the establishment and maintenance of an opera house in Chicago, is taken today by certain persons in Boston, who met Mr. Hammerstein, when he was here, as only one more indication of the ambition of the versatile Oscar to be the Grand Opera Trust of America.

A chain of Hammerstein opera houses, to take in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston, is the goal of the Hammerstein ambition.

Berlin cables today quote J. Ogden Armour as denying that he has offered $1,000,000 for a Chicago grand opera house. "I am packing beef, not backing opera," is Armour's quoted expression.

Will Invade Chicago.

But, whether Mr. Armour and Mr. Hammerstein ever get together in grand opera for Chicago or not, the readiness of Mr. Hammerstein to further a $2,000,000 enterprise for his end of the game shows that he will go into Chicago, just as he has in Philadelphia and New York, on the latest excuse agreed.

When his fortnight season in Boston closed a month ago Mr. Hammerstein confided to a friend here that he would some time have an opera house in this city. He even hinted that he had his eye on the new Boston grand opera house, now under construction.

The Hammerstein idea is to have a central corps of soloists, high-priced songbirds, to be sent from one to another opera house in the chain which the impresario would establish. While one house could not support the golden-voiced star, they could be profitably maintained if sent around a circuit of houses.

Easy to Get Singers.

Mr. Hammerstein can get the singers. He can secure opera houses. All he needs is the capital necessary to swing such a vast operatic enterprise. He has shown some ability in negotiating that.

That such is his purpose is not doubted by those who are close to Mr. Hammerstein and his ambitions.

STORK LEAVES BOY ON LINER IN GALE

Although she carried 2,000 passengers when she left Queenstown, the Cunarder Ivernia, when she docked here, had one passenger more. That person was Michael Glynn, who was born on the ship during one of the worst tempests of the year in the North Atlantic.

The big liner had an unusually stormy voyage. She brought in many well-known people, Bostonians and others, including at least one young opera singer who has achieved remarkable success throughout Germany, and who is now the prima donna of the Royal Opera Company of Munich. She is Miss Marcella Craft, formerly of Boston.

99-YEARS-OLD MAN GETS LOST HERE

Nicholas Modge, hale and hearty though 99 years old, got lost in Boston.

The aged man, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. John Dwelle, at Stony Brook, Waltham, walked into the kitchen of the home of Mrs. James Long at 55 Prospect street, Cambridgeport, proceeded to make himself comfortable, and though unknown to the occupants of the house proclaimed the fact that he was glad to get home.

WOULD GIVE TAFT HIS JERSEY COW

Charles Dolan, messenger for the Superior Court, has notified President Taft that he would be pleased to send his famous cow, Justice, on the Summer White House at Beverly.

Justice is now at Wolfboro, N. H., the summer home of Mr. Dolan, and the latter says that it would be an easy matter to ship her to Beverly.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Heavy Tax on Men of Wealth in Britain.

LONDON—The burden of the $78,500,000 deficit for the fiscal year, due to old-age pensions and the race with Germany for Dreadnoughts, is placed upon accumulated wealth and the liquor business in the Liberal government's budget. A storm of protest has come up. Under the proposed increase the government demands on an earned income exceeding $25,000 a year more than double the usual rate of interest that sum could earn as an investment. On an unearned income the demand is almost triple. The budget provides $13,000,000 more from liquor licenses, $9,500,000 from tobacco and imposes a tax of $10,875,000 on autos.

After Canadian Trade.

LIVERPOOL—The new steamship Lauretic, for the White Star-Dominion Line service, has sailed for Montreal on her maiden trip. The sailing marks the entry of the White Star line into the Canadian trade, in conjunction with the Dominion Line.

BOY'S INFERNAL MACHINE FIRED BY WIRELESS

EVANSVILLE, April 30.—An explosive forty times as powerful as dynamite and a wireless apparatus with which it can be set off at a distance of many miles, have been invented by Charles Williams, a boy of eighteen, of this place.

This wonderful creation of the young man's inventive genius is such as has hitherto only found a possibility in the minds of such imaginative writers as Jules Verne, H. G. Wells, Jack London and other masters of fiction.

Three ounces of the explosive, which is a kind of powder, were placed in the top of an old tire three miles away from the home of the inventor. The wireless machine was then set to work and almost immediately there was the report of the explosion of the distant blast that shook the city.

"I can cause an explosion by my method," declared Williams, "as far away as Chicago."

Chicago is about 287 miles from this city, so it will be seen, after a little thought, the remarkable possibilities of the invention. As a means of secret destruction it has Martin's machine beaten beaten.

For instance a package of the explosive might be taken—sent by mail or express to the home of an enemy a few hundred miles distant, and when the operator of the wireless machine felt that the explosive had been delivered, all he would have to do would be to press his key and—bang!—up would go the object of his attack.

FIND BRITT NEAR DEATH IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 30.—Willie Britt, manager of Battling Nelson, lightweight champion of the world, and of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion, was found unconscious about midnight in the doorway of No. 40 East Fourth street by Policeman Hand of the Mercer street station.

The blowout did not know the identity of the man. He called Dr. Sullivan of St. Vincent's Hospital, and the surgeon rushed the prominent manager to that institution. Dr. Sullivan said that he was suffering from alcoholism.

In Britt's pocket five morphine tablets were found. Also there was found a telegram signed with the name of "Tom" McCarey, a Los Angeles light promoter. The message was a personal one.

When Britt was taken to the hospital the surgeons made futile efforts to revive him. He could not speak. His eyes did not respond to the usual methods of manipulation. Only a slight movement of the arms and legs showed that his condition was very grave. The physicians were afraid he would "head" the addiction and Britt himself might have refused it, and would have their heads off in a determined manner, and shrugged their shoulders.

Britt has been staying at the Hotel Bartholdi for about four weeks. He went there after coming from the West to match Ketchel with Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion of the world. His wife and baby are also at the hotel.

RICH WOMAN IN WILD GALE ABOVE CLOUDS

NORTH ADAMS, April 30.—In spite of the fact that the big balloon "Cleveland," in which she made her first flight, was whirled about for over two hours in a terrific snow squall two miles above the earth, Mrs. J. C. Hamilton of Sterling, Ky., is not unfavorable to-day over the trip that she declares she will have a balloon constructed immediately for her own use.

Immediately after landing Mrs. Hamilton communicated with the AMERICAN correspondent. She declared that it was a great trip.

"Was I nervous? I guess not! I never thought ballooning was such a delightful sport. My husband and myself think so much of ballooning that we have practically decided to have a big balloon built for us.

"I suppose lots of people thought I would faint on the ascent. Well, I guess those persons forgot that I am a Kentucky woman. Down where I come from, when the women start out to do anything, they usually see it to a finish.

"When we ran into the snow squall, I thought at first that the balloon would turn over and that we would be dumped out of the basket. The moment I saw, however, that we were perfectly safe, I was delighted.

"The landing was great. When we first began to descend it was great, as all that I would not have known anything of it until Mr. Stevens told me. When the ripcord was cut, however, the balloon descended very rapidly. Oh, but it was a great trip.

FAMOUS WHIP TO BE BRIDE OF SOUTHERNER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—A wedding engagement that will interest Boston society was announced in this city to-day. The contracting parties are Preston Davie, nephew of Mrs. William P. Draper of Hopedale, Mass., and Miss Emily Bedford of Brooklyn, one of the most famous woman whips and horse show exhibitors in the country.

Mr. Davie is a graduate of Harvard and a practicing attorney of this city. During his student days at Cambridge he was a great favorite in the Back Bay society circles of Boston. The date of the wedding will be set so that, if possible, the families of General William P. Draper and Elliott S. Draper, Governor of Massachusetts, may be present.

Miss Davie is a daughter of E. T. Bedford of 182 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, who has large Standard Oil holdings. He is the owner of one of the finest strings of show horses in the world, and Miss Bedford, who is an expert driver, displays them at the principal horse shows of the country.

At the last Louisville horse show Miss Bedford won Alfred Vanderbilt in the ring and bested the young millionaire frequently.

Miss Davie is a member of an old Kentucky family from which several of the Massachusetts Drapers have selected brides. He is the son of George M. Davie, noted lawyer, and grandson of General William Preston, who was United States Minister to Spain, a member of Congress and famous Confederate army officer.

BLACK SPOTS ON WHITE TO SIGNAL MARS

BALTIMORE, April 30.—Prof. Robert W. Wood of Johns Hopkins University has been flooded with telegrams asking him to take charge of an observatory in Texas from which to signal to Mars. The Texans, Dr. Wood says, must have discovered that he has been making experiments with a mercury mirror. Speaking of the signaling scheme Prof. Wood said:

"As to the project for attracting the attention of the Martians to the fact that there are rational beings on the earth, it seems to me that if there are any who insist upon making us conspicuous it would be better to devise some simpler way than by constructing a mirror several miles in diameter.

"A large black spot upon the white alkali plains could be constructed at much less expense and would be as easily perceived by the Martians if they exist and have telescopes as powerful as ours. It would be as easy to wink signals with the black spot as with a mirror of equal size, probably easier.

"The spot could be made of small sections of black cloth arranged to roll up on long cylinders, exposing the white ground underneath, the cylinders being operated simultaneously by electric motors.

"We should probably get no answer for the Martians are supposedly older and wiser than we are."

SEVERE ITCHING HUMOR ON HANDS

Tiny Pustules Spread Up to Elbows —Could Not Sleep and Scratched Until She Bled— After Seven Months of Futile Treatment, Little Girl was Completely

CURED IN TWO WEEKS BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My daughter, twelve years of age, was afflicted with a terrible itching of the hands which was so bad at night that she was unable to sleep. She scratched herself until she bled. The trouble began in the shape of small pimples about the size of a pin head, which produced severe itching and then a hard scab formed on top. These enlarged, opened up again, bleeding badly. From the fingers it extended over the hand and as far as the elbow. The doctor said it was eczema and that recovery would necessarily be slow. He treated me daughter for seven months, but the trouble always grew worse. Then I started in to use the Cuticura Remedies. After I had used Cuticura Soap for two weeks, with Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, her hands were healed. Mrs. M. Strecker, South Haven, Minn., April 1 and July 7, 1908."

JORDAN DYING FROM PARESIS, SAY ALIENISTS

Experts Jelly and Page Both Swear Prisoner Suffers from Incurable Disease of Brain. Latter Allows Him Three Years to Live.

An adjournment of two hours was taken at noon so that the State and defense might agree upon a long hypothetical question to be asked the alienists. It was said that when the alienists for the defense have answered this question the defense would rest.

ALIENIST SAYS JORDAN MAY LIVE ONLY THREE YEARS

Dr. Frank W. Page's direct examination was continued by Attorney Pratt at the opening of court.

Q.—Do you say that the prisoner is suffering from some disease now? A.—Yes.

Q.—What is he suffering from? A.—I think he is suffering from an organic disease of the brain.

Q.—Has he long to live? A.—In my estimation he has an incurable disease, the average duration of which is three years.

Q.—Leaving out the truth or falsity of anything that the prisoner has said to you, would that affect your opinion as to his mental condition? A.—About any man with this man's history and the symptoms which I found I would give the same opinion.

Dr. Page was cross-examined by District Attorney Higgins.

Q.—Is general paresis fatal within a short period of time? A.—Yes.

Will Result in Paresis.

Q.—What is Jordan suffering from? A.—A combination of epilepsy and an organic disease of the brain.

Q.—Just what is this organic disease of the brain? A.—Chronic inflammation of the brain, as well as a softening and hardening of the brain and result in general paresis.

Q.—How long has Jordan been suffering from this chronic inflammation? A.—It dates back right years.

Q.—How do you determine that? A.—From the first manifestation of his blood trouble.

Q.—And from that I suppose you mean the scrape on the leg? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you contend that he has general paralysis of the brain? A.—I do.

Q.—Then you disagree with Dr. McDonald? A.—Dr. McDonald is suspicious. I am positive.

Q.—How many hours have you examined Jordan? A.—Eleven and a half hours.

Q.—Dr. McDonald has seen him more than you have? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you consider most Jordan's symptoms or his story? A.—His symptoms.

Q.—How is general paralysis evident, A.—By dementia and mental and physical helplessness.

Believes Jordan's Story.

Q.—Now, may not Jordan, well-nourished, healthy, with a light, gentle and regular walk, have the mental capacity to determine what is right and what is wrong? A.—Yes, he may have.

Q.—Now, you have been guided much by Jordan's story as told to Dr. McDonald? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you believed it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, if this story was untrue, would you modify your opinion? A.—Yes, I would.

Q.—You believe that the story Jordan told about being seized and after the struck his wife with that manner and the smoking sensation, symptoms which you declare are forerunners of an epileptic seizure, you believe that story is true, do you? A.—That his mind became a blank? A.—Yes.

Q.—And yet he recalled afterward events in the kitchen which occurred after he had had this epileptic seizure and before he awoke fully dressed in his bed the next morning? A.—Yes, he did.

Q.—Now, leaving out his story, was there anything in the incident of September 1 that you have found to indicate epilepsy on the part of Chester Jordan? I mean, eliminate his story entirely, and deal with incidents? A.—No, I can't perceive that there was.

Q.—So that you really build your opinion as to insanity on his story of what happened that night? A.—Yes.

An "Epileptic Frenzy."

Q.—Is an epileptic attack followed immediately by anything else than unconsciousness and lapse of memory? A.—Yes, sometimes by a frenzy—what we call epileptic frenzy.

Q.—Have you seen any evidence in Jordan of epileptic frenzy? A.—I haven't seen any.

Q.—Does the crime indicate epileptic frenzy? A.—I believe that Jordan had an epileptic seizure as he struck his wife and that this seizure was followed by epileptic frenzy.

Q.—So that he was in a state of frenzy when he committed the crime? A.—Yes.

Q.—Well, if in a frenzy, using a five and a half pound flatiron to inflict blows on his wife's head, wouldn't he have returned the head to a pulp? A.—Yes.

Q.—And, using a butcher knife in a frenzy, wouldn't he have hacked and hacked and hacked at his wife's throat until almost the head was entirely severed from the body, instead of making one single gash across the throat? A.—Yes, he would.

Q.—And you heard the evidence here, doctor, that the cut in the throat was but a single gash? A.—I did.

Q.—And wouldn't you consider that a most unusual kind of cut, but the one single gash to be inflicted by an epileptic in a frenzy? A.—Yes.

Memory Was Unusual.

Q.—Do you attach any significance to the fact that Jordan cut his wife's body into thirteen pieces? A.—No; epileptics would do the same.

Q.—Assuming that Jordan came out of that unconscious state bright and clear on Wednesday morning, assuming you say that it was an unusual thing to later recall some of the things which he did while in that unconscious state? A.—Yes.

Q.—Assuming that he did his business on Wednesday in the regular way, wouldn't you consider that an unusual thing for a man to do who had committed a crime such as this? A.—Not for an epileptic.

Q.—Are there some epileptics who are sane? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—So that because that a man is an epileptic, that is no evidence that he is insane? A.—No.

Q.—As far as Jordan's conduct and speech is concerned, you can't say that he has hardening of the brain, can you? A.—No, not hardening, but there is a diseased condition there.

Q.—Is a person who has epilepsy actuated by motives to commit an act the same as anyone else? A.—Yes.

Responsible When Conscious.

Q.—I did not ask you that. I asked you if you would not naturally expect a man to have an attack under certain conditions? A.—I can't answer the question.

Q.—You don't say that because a man is cold blooded he has epilepsy, do you? A.—No.

Q.—Or because he is passive? A.—No.

Q.—Or because he is callous? A.—No.

Q.—When a man epileptic is unconscious is it only during that state of unconsciousness when he has an attack? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he becomes responsible when he begins to come out of that state, doesn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—Epileptics will resume a conversation which was broken off by a state of unconsciousness as soon as they come out of that state, will they not? A.—They may or may not.

Q.—There are many cases where they do? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you find it common for a man to recall sometimes after one of these attacks what he did while he was unconscious? A.—It is not common.

Q.—In other words, it is very rare isn't it? A.—Yes.

Napoleon an Epileptic.

Q.—History tells us that some of the world's greatest geniuses were epileptics, does it not? A.—Yes.

Q.—Napoleon was an epileptic, was he not? A.—I believe so.

Q.—And Mendelssohn was? A.—I believe so.

The witness was then taken in hand for redirect examination by Attorney Pratt.

Q.—Assuming that the body of Mrs. Jordan was cut up when there was a lodger in the house, does that indifference to interruption indicate epilepsy? A.—Epileptics are very indifferent.

Q.—Is that one of the things that causes you to come to the conclusion that this prisoner is suffering from epilepsy? A.—Yes.

Q.—From a recent examination of Jordan's eyes you are able to say that he is suffering from paresis? A.—Yes.

Dr. Page was then re-cross-examined by the District Attorney.

Q.—You spoke about indifference to interruption as being an indication that the defendant has epilepsy. Was that coupled when you answered that question that there were dishes upon the sink and the set tubs and the lodger's bed on the right of the parlor? A.—Yes.

JELLY DECLARES PRISONER HAD NO MORAL WILL POWER

Dr. George F. Jelly, a specialist in mental diseases since 1869 and for years superintendent of the McLean Hospital at Waverly, a member of the State Board of Insanity and admittedly one of the foremost alienists in this country, was examined by Attorney Pratt.

Q.—Have you examined Chester Jordan? A.—Yes, I made four examinations, in company with Dr. McDonald.

Q.—Are you able to form an opinion as to what his condition was before September 1st last? A.—Yes. He was suffering from a malady of the brain.

Q.—And do you arrive at this conclusion, leaving aside the story which he told Dr. McDonald? A.—Yes.

Q.—How do you arrive at your opinion? A.—First, from the general appearance of his face, from his history and from the careful examination and tests which we made.

Q.—What should you say Chester Jordan is to-day and was on September 1? Is he epileptic and with a malady of the brain due to a blood disease.

Q.—Would you say that he is a general paralytic? A.—No, I would not say that he is suffering from paralysis. He has an organic disease of the brain.

Morally Irresponsible.

Q.—Could such a crime as was committed in this case be done by a person in an epileptic seizure? A.—Yes.

Q.—Would a person in the condition of epilepsy that Jordan was in September 1st be capable of distinguishing right from wrong? A.—He would not be.

Q.—Would he have moral control of the will to deter him from committing a atrocious crime? A.—No.

Q.—Would he understand the nature of the crime? A.—No.

Q.—In your opinion did Chester S. Jordan on the night of September 1 understand the nature of the crime which he is charged with committing? A.—I do not believe that he did.

Dr. Jelly was then cross-examined by the District Attorney.

Q.—The only evidence that you have of Jordan's condition September 1 comes from himself, does it not, doctor's A.—Yes.

Q.—Even with Jordan as you have found him and the history of him up to September 1, he was capable of committing that crime, wasn't he? A.—Well, yes.

Q.—Does the fact that he committed it prove that he had an epileptic seizure at the time? A.—No, not necessarily.

Q.—Does a man in an epileptic fit have the discretion of what he has done during the paroxysm? A.—He might have a recollection afterward. It might come to him, but during the furore he would not know what he was doing.

Might Recall Afterward.

Q.—So, that if he had the furore you mean, he could have no recollection during the furore? A.—Yes, he might have afterward. They might come back to him, but in the furore he has no memory.

Q.—Isn't it very rare, doctor, for an epileptic, after a seizure, and when consciousness has returned, to relate in detail everything that happened while he had the seizure? A.—Yes, that is rare.

Q.—Have you known of any such cases before? A.—There have been cases where recollection of the epileptic has been, but they are very unusual where every detail is recalled.

Q.—In a case like that, where the details are recalled, isn't the recollection fatal? A.—No, I won't say that.

Q.—Do you recollect a case, doctor, in all your years and years of experience, a case of your own, where after an epileptic seizure, the epileptic has come back to the patient of what happened during the seizure? A.—Yes, that is rare.

Q.—Have you heard of any such cases before? A.—There have been cases where recollection of epileptic has been, but they are very unusual where every detail is recalled.

Q.—In a case like that, where the details are recalled, isn't the recollection fatal? A.—No, I won't say that.

Q.—Do you recollect a case, doctor, in all your years and years of experience, a case of your own, where after an epileptic seizure, the epileptic has come back to the patient of what happened during the seizure? A.—Yes, I do not.

Q.—And you have had many, many cases, doctor, during your experience? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, patients remain in an epileptic seizure sometimes for hours, do they not? A.—Yes, from one or eight hours.

Q.—And the greater number of patients do little or nothing but lie still and keep unconscious? A.—Yes.

Q.—And is it usual or unusual for a patient in an epileptic seizure to go about in an unconscious condition for hours and do such things? A.—Yes, it would be very unusual.

Would Be Very Weak After.

Q.—And assuming that a patient was in this state for two hours, say from 7:30 at night until 7 o'clock in the morning, which is almost twelve hours, what would be the condition of the people with the return of consciousness? A.—He would be very weak, in a state of physical exhaustion.

Q.—Would he be able to speak coherently? A.—Not for a while.

Q.—Isn't it rare in a patient for almost twelve hours in an epileptic seizure with the return of consciousness, for him to be clear-headed, and to go about his business affairs? A.—Yes.

Q.—You have heard no evidence of Chester Jordan after recovering from his seizure being weak or in a state practically of physical exhaustion, have you? A.—No.

Homicide Was Insane Act.

Q.—Was the homicide of September 1st in itself an insane act?

Dr. Jelly paused long. He looked all about the room and finally at the jury and answered:

Yes, I think it was."

Q.—Are all killings insane acts? A.—No.

Q.—If you were satisfied that there was a motive would that affect your judgment? A.—It might.

Q.—Your opinion, doctor, is that this man Jordan is suffering from a progressive and incurable brain disease, is it not?

A.—Yes.

Q.—How about the time which Dr. McDonald tells about, the time when Dr. McDonald says you were present and Jordan started into space for three or four minutes? I don't know about that until afterwards.

Q.—Did you know about it at the time of the seizure? A.—No.

Q.—Dr. McDonald didn't call it to your attention at the time? A.—No, he said nothing to me about it until later.

Q.—Did you make any note of it? A.—No.

Q.—Well, that was an important piece of evidence in deciding that Jordan has epilepsy, isn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—But you did not observe that Jordan had the seizure at the time that Dr. McDonald testified to? A.—No, I didn't.

Dr. Page Testifies Jordan Killed Wife in 'Epileptic Frenzy'

Dr. Frank W. Page, an alienist of Boston, to-day testified in the Jordan trial:

IN DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Jordan has general paralysis of the brain.

The brain is hardening and general paresis will ensue.

He has been suffering from this trouble for eight years.

He cannot live at best more than three years.

IN CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Jordan does not walk like a man with paralysis.

Jordan may know right from wrong.

Nothing that he did on September 1 (the day he killed his wife) indicated insanity.

He had epileptic insanity when he struck his wife and then "epileptic frenzy."

He would (Dr. Page admitted) have beaten his wife's head to a pulp if he had had "epileptic frenzy," and he would have hacked her head off.

ASSAULT CASE GOES TO SUPEME COURT

Judge Braley of the Supreme Court today denied the application for bail of Razzo Sullivan, now in Dedham Jail serving six months for assault on an officer. Sullivan, when his case reached the Superior Court, asked for a trial, but Judge Sherman refused on the ground that Sullivan had pleaded guilty in the lower court. Sullivan claimed that he had pleaded not guilty, and wanted an opportunity to show that such was the case, but a writ of error was obtained. The case goes to the full bench of the Supreme court.

MUNSTERBERG RAPS MENTAL HEALING CULT

In his new book on "Psychotherapy," issued to-day, Professor Munsterberg of Harvard attacks the methods of the Christian Science Church and the Emmanuel Movement. He says that both are founded on error, are dangerous and should not be permitted to spread. He maintains that the treatment of persons sick in mind or body should not be left in the hands of ministers, but to physicians.

With regard to the Emmanuel Church Movement Professor Munsterberg says:

"The movement which Dr. Worcester has started in Boston spreads to-day all over the continent and awakens the ambition of many a minister in every denomination. The call is to cure the patient by reinforcing in him, through religious persuasion, through contact with the symbol of the church and with godmen, and through religious suggestion, a confident belief which gives new unity and strength in new strength to the mind in the sufferer until it overcomes the functional disease of the body. The physician at first examines whether or not an irremediable disease has attacked the body, and if he does not find such organic destruction then the patient is to be handed over to a minister who will take care of him through his religious belief and inspiration the mind will triumph over the weakness of the body.

"How can a minister's half-belief knowledge of medicine compare with the experienced study of the registered physician?

"It cheapens religion by putting the accent on the meaning of life on personal comfort and absence of pain. The originators of the Emmanuel Movement attack where such error, but their congregations do not.

"The danger of Christian Science is much greater as it extends its methods over every organic disease as it then applies merely mystical treatment where from the standpoint of scientific medicine physical treatment would be absolutely necessary. Moreover, its philosophy is only a pseudo-philosophy, its trampling upon all disease and error and sin and unreality are ultimately, a mere playing with conceptions."

BOSTO NARTIST WINS BIG PRIZE

Edmund C. Tarbell of this city has been awarded a gold medal of the first class, carrying with it an additional award of $1,500, for his painting, "Girl Crocheting," at the Founders' Day exhibition at the Carnegie Institute to honor Andrew Carnegie, through whose generosity the Institute was established.

Mr. Tarbell's painting has been frequently termed "The best picture ever done in America." The paint on it was scarcely dry before it was sold in New York for $2,500. It is claimed that the sum of $100,000 would not purchase it at the present time.

THE GLADNESS OF SUNSHINE.

The snowy and icy garment of grim winter has been raised from the earth and the glorious sunshine of spring warms the hearts of men. The earth is treated to the old familiar sounds of rippling brooks, melodious notes of warbling birds and harmonious of gushing rills. Who can resist the endless charms of Nature when touched by the magic wand of awakening spring? How and to whom are there any charms to those scarce spring proclaims no joy. Fettered to their couch by painful disease, the gloomy sombre does not dispel the gloom that fills the soul. If you be afflicted go at once to your druggists and get a 50 cent treatment of Dr. Peruna's Vegetable Compound and relieve yourself of those distressing symptoms. Your blood needs purifying, your kidneys are out of order, bladder weak, nerves, headache, want of energy, tired feeling, constipation and general breakdown. If not cured return empty box and your money will be refunded, or a trial treatment sent free. Dr. W. S. Burkhardt, Station B, Cincinnati, Ohio.

DOROTHY FORBES, WHO EJECTED A MAN FROM SHOW

VINCENT CLUB GIRLS "HELP" INTRUDER OUT

Vincent Club girls are boasting to-day of the physical prowess of their president, Miss Adelaide Jackson, and the chief usher at their play, "Harum-Scarum"—Miss Dorothy Forbes—who, without masculine aid, ejected a zeal live man from Jordan Hall, when he sought to witness the performance disguised as a woman.

Need a policeman to guard themselves against intrusion? Not on your existence, not these Vincent Club girls. They are amply able to protect themselves.

The Man didn't make much of a hit with his disguise. He was six feet tall, to begin with, which marked him for an early exit. He wore feminine clothes, to be sure, and a blonde wig. Close inspection in the corridor revealed these defects, to wit: extreme and unlovely height, quite impossible in a Boston girl; large feet, clad in masculine shoes.

The man was immediately ter tabbed. The president of the club and her chief usher laid violent hands upon him.

"Leggo," said he.

"Aywaun," said they, which translated into plain English means "Beat it."

And he did.

Aided, however, by two plucky, determined, athletic misses. It is reported that his feet touched the ground every third step and no oftener.

The Vincent Club girls always bar the men from their shows.

COUNT COSTS MISS ISELIN $2,000,000

AIKEN, S. C., April 30.—It is said that before Count Colloredo Mannsfeld, Miss Nora Iselin's fiance, left for Washington papers were signed guaranteeing the transfer of $2,000,000 to his name before the marriage takes place in May. The Iselins will leave Aiken on Saturday for New Rochelle. Count Mannsfeld will soon proceed from Washington to New Rochelle, where the wedding is to be held.

GIRL TRAMPS 70 HOURS WITH BABE ON BACK

NEW YORK, April 30.—After tramping more than fifty miles through the wilds of two counties, most of the time with a four-year-old child on her back, and suffering agonies from exposure and fear in a strange country, whose very language she did not know, Mary Szur, a seventeen-year-old girl who disappeared from her uncle's home in Garfield, N. J., last Sunday, was found to-day in a box car on a siding of the West Shore Railroad, at Tappan, N. Y. Little four-year-old Joseph Berger, Jr., her nephew, was with her.

The girl and the child were little the worse for their harrowing experience. She was almost speechless with fright, but managed to tell a servant in the hotel, who spoke Hungarian, how she had lost her way and had tramped the country until she did.

Trace of the girl had been found last night at Oradel, N. J. A searching party to-day traced her to Norwood, a few miles south of Tappan.

While the party was going up the road near the railroad tracks they came upon the Tappan saw a young girl and a child in a box car on a siding.

The girl had tramped since Sunday, when she lost her way while taking the child with her nephew. They had slept in the woods several nights and got food from the few farmers' wives to whom they could make their wants known.

The girl did not appear to know herself where she had been. The terrors of yesterday in the cold and the darkness seem to have unnerved her in respect to that portion of her fearful experience. She shuddered and shook her head violently whenever she was asked to describe what she had gone through since yesterday morning. The girl and child were taken to Hackensack and then to the home of Joseph Berger in Garfield. The latter was overjoyed when he saw his little son once more.

BRIDGE BLOCKED BY FORTY-TON GIRDER

Inward bound traffic over the Chelsea north bridge was tied up six hours to-day and thousands of people were delayed by trolley blockades when the heavy twelve-horse dray of the R. S. Brine Transportation Company, laden with a forty-ton iron girder, became lodged in the planking of the bridge near the car track. The girder was being transported from the New England Structural Company's Dunipby Revere to the City square station of the Elevated road. Cars of the Boston & Northern Company from Chelsea, Revere, Lynn and Beachmont were diverted from Sumner square and sent to Boston by way of Everett. A crew from the Boston bridge department rigged up a large derrick to raise the dray.

PHYSICIAN SUES FOR POSTER NOTICE

Dr. Francis A. Bragg, medical examiner for the town of Foxboro, to-day brought suit against Michael Ryan of the same town to recover $5,000 for alleged defamation of character. The case has been assigned for trial in the Norfolk County Superior Civil Court in Dedham on Thursday, May 6. The suit which Dr. Bragg filed is the outcome of charges of violation of the liquor laws made against Ryan in which Dr. Bragg was a prominent witness. Dr. Bragg in his complaint says that on July 10, 1907, Ryan posted a written sign in the Depot square, Foxboro, making charges which injured him.

1,000 POLICE LIST VOTERS

Police listing of voters begins in this city at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning. It is estimated that it will require four and one-half days for the officers to get the names and addresses of every male resident of Boston, who is twenty-one years of age or older.

One thousand policemen are under orders to start the canvass of the city. The Back Bay station is listing headquarters and to Captain Frank I. Jones the police captains will turn over their lists as fast as they are received. Captain Jones will tabulate them and return them to the Election Commissioners.

The primary purpose of the listing is to get the names of all male residents who are to be assessed to pay poll taxes.

The $26,000 or more, estimated to be the expense of the listing, is largely taken up by the hiring of interpreters who are to go with the policemen. Women who vote will be listed.

BANDITS STEAL EXPRESS TRAIN

HAUSER JUNCTION, Idaho, April 30.—Two highwaymen late last night held up and robbed Northern Pacific passenger train No. 3 three miles east of here. The robbers cut the engine and one mail car from the train, shot twice at the fireman, ordering him from the engineer, put a revolver to Engineer Whittelsey's head and compelled him to send the engine ahead.

One bandit took the place of the fireman, and as they passed through Hauser he was throwing coal into the firebox in an hysterical manner. This revealed to the telegraph operator at the station that it was a hold-up, and he notified the train dispatcher in spokane.

While the mail car was being robbed at a point between Hauser and Yardley passed were forming on either side of the bandits to overhaul them.

The engine and mail car ran past the signals at Trent, ten miles east of Spokane, and had not appeared at Yardley at midnight.

LION IN PATH OF ROOSEVELT

NAIROBI, British East Africa, April 30. Theodore Roosevelt to-day left the ranch of Sir Alfred Pease on the Athi River for a point in the Mau Hills, near Machakos, where he hopes to bag a lion.

He is due to reach the hills some time to-day. Settlers in the hills have reported seeing a black maned lion every day for several days past. F. C. Selous, the English sportsman, has been in the Mau Hills for nearly a week.

Kermit Roosevelt did some very good shooting near the Pease ranch. He brought down a Thomson's gazelle at the first shot at a distance of 570 yards.

8-YEAR-OLD BOY SAVES BABE'S LIFE

GLOUCESTER, April 30.—Ada Ryan, three years old, while playing in a field with her brother Harold, aged four, fell into a pool of water. She was rescued by Harry Jacobs, eight years old. It is feared that the little girl cannot recover from the shock, as she has been ill.

EXPECT DEATH FOR OLD SULTAN

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 30.—It was officially announced to-day that Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan, will be tried by court-martial. A death sentence is anticipated. Hilmi Pasha will form the new cabinet.

The new government will investigate the Adana massacres by court-martial. According to information made public to-day the ringleaders will be severely punished.

Aged Woman Breaks Fast Walking Record

MRS. JANE EDWARDS ROOT.

And the Winner, Mrs. Jane Edwards Root, of 1605 E. 30th St., Cleveland, O., 80 Years Old, Whose Picture Appears in the Illustration, Won the Race by Walking 2½ Miles in 26 Minutes. Mrs. Root Attributes Her Vigor, Health and Staying Powers to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, Which She Has Taken for Years.

In a recent interview Mrs. Root said: "I seldom take medicine, but two years ago at my home in Cleveland I felt not very strong, so bought one bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I was benefited by it. I am 80 years old, and won the champion ship in the great walking contest for aged people in Cleveland. I came out winner of 28 contestants over 75 years of age (14 women and 14 men). I beat the world's record, and now hold the championship for the United States and Europe. I walked 2½ miles in 26 minutes, and was not at all tired; could have walked it right over again. One paper gave the account as two miles in 26 minutes; all the other papers were right. When I reached the end, not another walker was anywhere near me, and the enthusiasm was great. I have had an immense mail ever since from professors in colleges and prominent men all over, wishing to know how I lived, what my diet was, what caused this wonderful strength and endurance at 78 years of age. I take good care of my health, have camped out every summer for the past 25 years, live well, and use as my only medicine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have known during the past two years several wonderful cures from Duffy's Malt Whiskey. It is a remarkable medicine for Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble. Two instances have come to my notice of permanent cures. My wonderful health and ability to walk long distances I attribute to using it as a medicine." Every testimonial is guaranteed genuine and is published in good faith with full consent.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

ALL HOLLAND CELEBRATING BABY'S BIRTH

THE HAGUE, April 30.—All Holland is rejoicing over the birth of a daughter to Queen Wilhelmina. The eagerly anticipated event took place at 7 a. m. to-day and was announced to thousands who had waited for hours for news from the palace by a salute of fifty-one guns. The condition of Queen and Princess is reported satisfactory.

Demonstrations of a gigantic scale were held to-day in every town of the kingdom. There were processions and concerts and fetes. School children have been given a week's holiday and a general amnesty was proclaimed for prisoners sentenced for minor offenses. Guns were stationed several days ago upon the parade grounds, to boom out a salute of one hundred and one guns for a prince and fifty-one for a princess. The heavy roar of the fifty-one guns burst forth at dawn proclaiming a princess. The city took on the air of a sixteenth century municipality to-day. Heralds with trumpets in the costumes worn four centuries ago paraded through the streets proclaiming the glad tidings to every quarter of the city.

"Fellow citizens—With great joy we announce the news that our princess by the grace of God, has been delivered of a princess."

The entire population of The Hague snares the feelings of deep joy of the United people and is thankful for the blessing bestowed upon the royal house and upon the country. May the happy event strengthen the bonds uniting The Netherlands and the house of Orange. Long live the queen, long live the Princess of Orange."

CAN YOU SOLVE THE PUZZLES? They are by Sam Loyd, in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

12 ARRESTED IN GAMBLING RAID

Twelve men were arrested early to-day, and cards, dice, pool tables and other gambling paraphernalia seized, when Sergeants Steele and McMenniman and eight policemen from Station 2, East Cambridge, raided the house at No. 911 Cambridge street. The policemen blocked every exit and then broke down the door with sledges. So fast as the men rushed out they were arrested. They gave their names and addresses as: James Cassidy, Hanson street, Boston; Frank Robinson, Washington street, Boston; Thomas Alexander and John K. Kelley, Cambridge street, East Cambridge; Frank O'Hara, Provincetown; James Crowley, Portland street, Cambridge; Dennis Sullivan, Dwight street, Boston; Henry Fessenden, Hilbert street, Boston; John Kelly, Waltham street, Boston; Samuel Green, Union Park street, Boston; Frank C. Watson, Appleton street, Boston, and Joseph H. Thomas, Marney street, East Cambridge.

SHUMAN MAKES GIFT TO BENEFIT SOCIETY

The thirtieth annual meeting of the A. Shuman & Co. Mutual Benefit Association, held at Shuman Corner, was attended by about 150 members. The treasurer's report showed that the finances of the association are in a prosperous condition. The former officers were re-elected.

One of the most interesting features of the meeting was the reading of a letter from A. Shuman. The head of the firm made a generous donation besides his annual donation.

SISTER HILDA DEAD

Sister Hilda, one of the "White Bonnet" Sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, died early to-day at St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Cushing avenue, Dorchester, after a long illness. Her family name was McMahon.

The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock to-morrow at St. Peter's Church.

JENKINS HAINS GETS A WRATHY COURT REPROOF

FLUSHING, L. I., April 30.—After having been on the witness stand since yesterday morning, General Peter Hains finished his testimony in the trial of his son for the murder of William E. Annis at noon to-day. His story of his son's irrational actions was not shaken, although it is believed that the prosecution has new evidence which it will bring forward later to show that Captain Hains, the defendant, was irrational at the time of the killing. Thornton Jenkins Hains was called to the stand immediately after the General left it.

As the writer of sea stories stepped to shake hands with his father and brother the Major, Justice Gerretson said sharply, "Take the witness stand."

The captain did not once look toward the brother who had gone through the tragedy at his side.

Called Down by Court.

"Do you remember the time your brother went to the Philippines," asked Mr. McIntyre.

"Yes, October, 1907."

"When did you see the Captain next?"

"On Sunday, May 24, 1908. I was in bed at No. 140 Eighty-sixth street, Brooklyn. It was before 9 o'clock. I was awakened by a crash in the door and a rush of feet. I hurried to the sitting room and a man rushed in."

Here the witness lifted his hands over his head, stretched out the fingers, shaking his arms, and, at the top of his voice, cried out, "I saw it was my brother."

"None of that," said the court sternly.

Resuming, Hains said: "My brother cried out, 'Claudia has confessed.'"

The Prisoner Breaks Down.

Here Captain Hains again broke down. He cried bitterly, but not aloud, hiding his face as much as he could from the view of those nearest him.

"I cried to my brother, 'My God, what's the matter.' He rushed round the room, uttering incoherent stuff. He pulled at his hair and kept on crying. 'It's all right, I apologize.'"

The witness again put his voice into a high pitch and moved his hands with many gesticulations and once more he was admonished by the court.

Will Bar Mrs. Annis.

That Mrs. William E. Annis will be barred from testifying at the trial of Captain Peter C. Hains for the murder of her husband was the statement of Daniel O'Reilly of the Hains lawyers to-day.

"If it is the proposition of the prosecutor to have Mrs. Annis tell her story of the shooting in the rebuttal testimony," said O'Reilly, "He is going to be disappointed. We will fight any such attempt to the very limit."

"I was surprised when Mr. Dewitt did not call the widow, who gave such important testimony at the first trial," said Mr. McIntyre, chief counsel for the defense.

"She certainly will not be allowed to give testimony and rebuttal on any other line than that which may tend to contradict our evidence that the captain was acting in an irrational manner at the time of the shooting, which she says she witnessed."

General Hains came into court a little before 10, put his left arm around his son's neck and kissed him.

In answer to Mr. Dewitt's first questions the witness reiterated that he believed his son irrational on the Sunday morning following Claudia's terrible confession. He insisted that the captain was not acting in an irrational manner at the time of the shooting, which she says she witnessed.

"What did the defendant say?" asked Dewitt.

SLAIN GIRL'S KINDNESS TO IMPOSSIBLE SUITOR LED TO LOVE TRAGEDY

Helen Ayer Marden, Somerville girl at Smith College; and Porter M. Smith, Dartmouth man, who killed her and himself.

A girl's gentle efforts to discourage the love suit of her college chum's brother, because his manner was something she could not endure, was the real and only reason for the striking down in death of pretty Helen Ayer Marden, of Somerville, the Smith College senior, who was shot to death by Porter M. Smith of Chicago, the Dartmouth athlete. The story was told in an AMERICAN report for the first time to-day by Frank W. Marden, father of the girl, who is senior member of the Boston firm of Marden, Orth & Hastings, stimporters.

She liked Smith, in spite of his fault, for her own character and training made sentimental love an impossibility. In the most kindly way she tried to show him that marriage was impossible. Then, his own passion overcame him—he wrote letters which absolutely ended the acquaintance, from her point of view.

At last, desperate, he sought her out and killed the young girl and himself.

This, in brief, is the grief-stricken father's own story. He said:

"How could any man, no matter what his mental condition, take the life of that pure-minded, kind-hearted and sweet girl? She was the sunlight of our home. But we have got to bear it—how, I do not know.

Acquainted for Some Time.

"They were acquainted for some time—I do not know just how long, whether a year or two years. His sister was a college friend of my two daughters and had brought them together. He has been at my house and has taken part with my poor child in musical entertainments associated with their college life.

"Both were musicians and they liked each other very well. We saw that and no one made objection until my daughter, Helen, first began to withdraw from him.

"Helen had reasons—of that I have no doubt. Mrs. Hatch, who conducted White Lodge, told me Helen had confided in her always and they had discussed Mr. Smith and his persistent attentions. Mrs. Hatch had assured me that Helen carried herself throughout like the true girl we always knew her to be; that she was reasonable and forbearing toward him and sought to withdraw from his attentions with the least possible discomfort to him.

"She was impelled to do this because of the way he had conducted himself and because she had no wish to marry.

"Once he wrote to her so pointedly as to elicit a like reply, upon which he directed another letter to my daughter, full of insult, open insult, of a threatening character—devoid of all dignity, and, I might say, manliness. This, of course, settled Helen's course toward him.

"When again he wrote and asked permission to join her at some social function about the college, she was even then responsible and kindly, returning him a courteous letter advising him to postpone his visit, to put it off, my child continued. It was carefully written and designed to show him that she did not desire his company, while not too flatly discarding him. He answered with threats and abuse, and all was over, of course.

Girl Avoided Meeting.

"Helen heard that he was in Northampton and she rather feared a meeting with Smith so she used to take her lunches in out of the way places with her girl friends, and in every way sought to avoid the meeting. But the meeting occurred with this terrible result.

"We have received telegrams from all over the country including condolences from the mother of the young man, Mrs. Charlotte Smith and from the uncles and aunts of the boy. It is of course equally terrible for them."

THE JOURNAL OF A NEGLECTED WIFE

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

CHAPTER V.

August 25th.

HAVE I been too complacent? Have I suffered in silence when I should have asserted my rights?

But what can I do? He is a man that reproaches and accusations would only embitter. I could never force back his love to me in that way.

Once I put this thing into words, it would completely estrange us. I would have to go away; I could not stay and let him know that I know.

Oh, if I only had the strength, the courage to go away! Strange as it may seem, every fresh proof of his infidelity instead of giving me the strength to go, only weakens me, makes me cling to him more and more.

I sometimes feel that my very love for him has degraded me, that it has made me oblivious to every sense of womanly pride.

August 27th.

This morning at breakfast I broke down completely. He was sitting across from me, his paper in one hand and his coffee cup in the other. Unobserved, I was watching him, as I often do now, thrilled with a consciousness of every detail of his personality. The poise of his head and shoulders, the air of distinction with which he wears his clothes, the whiteness of his linen.

The freshness of a morning bath was still about him, and now and then as I leaned forward I caught the faint fragrance of the toilet soap he always uses.

It sent the blood rushing to my face as it brought back memories of the first years of our marriage, when I used to bury my face against his neck to breathe this odor partly of himself and partly of his bath.

I tried to keep eyes on my plate, but again as by a magnet they were drawn to his strong, well-shaped head, the color of his linen cuff, the cloth of his coat—I have been known, caught up my muffin in hurried sobbing from the room.

Upstairs I locked my door and threw myself on the bed. Then I heard his knock. I buried my face in the pillows to muffle the sobs.

A moment later I felt his hand on my shoulder. He had gone around the other way and come in through the bathroom.

"What is it? What is it? What's the matter, dear?" Oh, how that "dear" hurt me—feigned, customary, mechanical, as it were, to bribe me from my tears.

He sat down beside the bed and gently drew me to him. For a second I clung to him in girlish abandonment, and yet I knew that we only held me—held me as one would hold another that they might not fall.

"There may have been pity in her touch, but that there was no love in his touch, I shrank away and hid my face in the pillows again.

"Mary, are you ill? Tell me what it is." Oh, you are killing me—killing me?" I sobbed.

A hideous silence. And then—

"Want do you mean?" His voice was like steel.

And I knew then, had I never known before, how useless any appeal would be—how futile to beat against this wall he had placed between us.

"Oh, I am only nervous and hysterical, I haven't been well lately, that's all," I explained hurriedly.

"You are alone too much." His voice was softer now. "If you would go out more—that is why I wanted to take you abroad. I felt you were losing interest and lose lonely. I am going to have Dr. Martin call this afternoon.

I made no protests. I did not say that in all these years I had never been lonely before, that it was only now—now since he was slipping away from me.

It would only have made him hard and bitter—he would call me hysterical.

August 29.

IS there anything in life so sad as old love letters—letters written by one who has since grown cold?

To-day I went through a box of letters he wrote me before our marriage—wonderful, glowing love letters. All these years I have kept them, and now I turn back to them with some vague hope that they will comfort me.

But they only hurt me more.* They have only made me feel more terribly all that I have lost.

Oh, how dead they seem! All the love and hopes and desires that they were filled with are dead now. As I read them I try to forget, to live back in that time when these were written, to thrill again with the thought of the future that I knew he held for me; the future that was throbbing with his love, with the promise of all the tenderness and nearness that would be ours.

Life holds nothing more beautiful than a young girl's dreams of the man she is to marry.

And my dreams came true. The first few years of our marriage I was happy beyond all words.

Even when he was away from me I used to live every moment in the shelter of his arms; the sense of his love and protection and the bond between us was always with me.

And then that wonderful year before our child came. Oh, the tenderness—the tenderness of his love for me in that year! And then our great sorrow when it lived only a few short hours.

I tried to keep much of my grief from him; in some vague way I felt that I had not fulfilled my mission. I cannot quite put it into words, and yet there was always a feeling that in the supreme test of wife-hood I had failed.

I have often wondered if other childless women have this same thought.

I am sure such a phase of it never occurred to him. He was very kind and gentle, and did all that he could to comfort me.

I remember one day he came home earlier than usual and found me up in my room crying over some little clothes that had never been worn.

He took me in his arms and begged me not to grieve so, that I must not be so hopeless, that some day the little clothes might still be needed. But they never were. Oh if only they had been! If there had only come another child to complete our lives and our home. I feel that no one could have ever come between us then.

But even if they had—I would still have had something. I would have had the child—our child—and now I have nothing—nothing! All the beautiful dreams of my girlhood and my wifehood are dead, and now I stand alone, old, childless, loveless and alone!

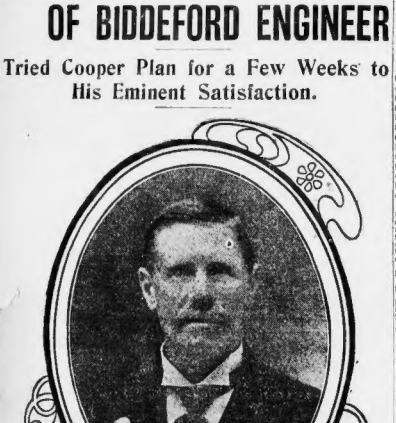
SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT OF BIDDEFORD ENGINEER

Tried Cooper Plan for a Few Weeks to His Eminent Satisfaction.



MR. B. F. RICHARD.

The theory of L. T. Cooper, that much of the ill-health to which mankind is heir arises from a disordered stomach, and his earlier claim that his New Discovery preparations will restore the stomach to a healthy condition and assist nature in throwing off many bodily ailments, has been tested and proven to his entire satisfaction by B. F. Richard, an engineer at the Deering & Proctor Co. factory, Biddeford, Me., who resides at 433 Main street, that city. With reference to his experiment, Mr. Richard says:

About a year ago I became ill—not violently, as perhaps dangerously, but as some people say, "under the weather." My stomach troubled me—felt sort of half sick. I had no desire for food. I was weak, nervous and tired and felt miserable. I had for some time been noticing the comments published in the papers relative to the Cooper theory and medicine, and I thought I would see if there was any merit in Cooper's claims accordingly, I bought a bottle of the New Discovery medicine. I was much surprised when I obtained immediate relief. Two more bottles put me on my feet. My stomach has given me no trouble since, and I can eat anything I like without being in the least distressed. I feel strong and vigorous—better than I have for a long time. In fact, I am perfectly well. I would advise anyone who is bothered with stomach trouble to give Cooper's New Discovery a trial."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists everywhere. A sample bottle sent free upon request by addressing The Cooper Medicine Company, Dayton, Ohio.

FREE HIDES? WELL, HARDLY

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The Senate Finance Committee has decided to respond to New England's demand for free hides by keeping the tariff at 15 per cent., which is the Dingley rate. Thus the great shoe industry of Massachusetts is given the cold shoulder by Senator Aldrich and his associate trust protectors.

The House, by a pronounced vote, said that hides should go on the free list, but in order to obtain the needed support of a few Western Senators Chairman Aldrich has consented to a duty on hides.

All efforts to get free lumber in the tariff bill have been abandoned, and despite the attacks which have been made by Senator Nelson and others on the lumber trust it is probable the Senate will not raise the duty to $1.50 a thousand.

The President and Attorney-General Wickersham have given their endorsement to the administrative features of the new tariff bill as prepared by the Senate finance committee. The amendments include the new maximum and minimum features which places discretionary power in the hands of the President.

The minimum and maximum clause was reported to the Senate to-day by the finance committee. It fixes the maximum at 25 per cent, and provides that a tax of 5 cents per pound on coffee and 10 cents per pound on tea can be levied as retaliatory measures when necessary.

COURT TO DECIDE WHERE $115,000 GOES

In order to settle just what is to be done with $115,000 in the possession of Henry A. Wyman, receiver for the American Legion of Honor, a hearing is being held today before Judge Braley of the Supreme Court in the case of Attorney-General Malone against the company. Wyman has asked the court for instructions. A dispute has arisen whereby certain policyholders claim that they are entitled to $5,000. The Attorney-General declares they are entitled to but $2,000.

HURRY 'BOSTON PLAN' DESIGNS

Only one week remains for contestants to try for the $150 in cash prizes offered by The AMERICAN in its "Boston Plan" contest.

Saturday, May 8, is the last day for filing ideas and designs as outlined in the conditions of the contest. All prospective contestants are warned to submit their ideas and sketches on or before that date to the "Boston Plan" Editor of the AMERICAN, at No. 82 Summer street.

Many excellent sketches and ideas have been received. But the best idea, if turned in on the last day, will have just as good a chance to win the judging for prizes.

The AMERICAN instituted this contest to aid the men who are backing the so-called "Boston Plan." This plan is based on the idea of "Boston 1915, the Finest City in the World." The AMERICAN also wished to encourage ideas and suggestions from the public.

A prize of $100 is offered by the AMERICAN for the best idea and sketch for a poster to typify "Boston—1915, the Finest City in the World."

A prize of $25 is offered for the best idea and sketch for letter and envelope heading along this same line.

A third prize of $25 is offered for the best phrase "Boston—1915, the Finest City in the World," or enough of it to convey the idea.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

UNION PACIFIC STOCK LEADER

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Because of the storm that blew down most of the wires leading into New York, business was dull in the stock market to-day. Most of the selling the last few days has been coming from the West and action of the market to-day confirmed the belief that the East was more optimistic in regard to stocks than the West.

Harriman shares were the leaders in London and continued their leadership to-day. Union Pacific was up 1¼ points in the first hour. Reading also continued strong and the coal shares moved higher. Interborough-Metropolitan stocks touched higher prices than for several weeks. Rock Island and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Rapid Transit were other strong features. On the New York curb market Nevada shares continued the feature as a result of the increasingly favorable reports of the silver metal market. Grain and cotton were both higher.

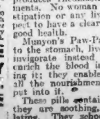
CONSTIPATION MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS



Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do all the functions of the liver and stomach in a way that gives those organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for more ills. Here are thirty-two feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer. When the impure becomes clogged, the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which in turn produces rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver complaint can expect to have a clear complexion, or enjoy good health.

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weakening; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope, they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic. Price 25 cents.

WALL STREET NEWS OF INTEREST TO INVESTORS

MASS MINING STOCK RISES

STATE STREET.—Mass Mining and East Boston were the particular bright spots in an otherwise dull and main-breathing market this forenoon. North Butte attracted the crowd at the opening, and a slightly increased short interest caused a two-point rally to 66, with subsequent reaction to 64¾. Amalgamated advanced to 77⅜.

Mass Mining scored a point and a quarter advance to 11⅝ on buying by brokers who has been active in it of late. Paine also took stock at the declines. East Butte rose a point on active trading to 14⅝. The annual meeting of the company occurs next week and several changes will be made in the directory. American Telephone was steady at from 141½ to 140¾.

Outside of a flurry in First National, there was little doing on the local curb exchange. Sell orders from New York sent the price off to 5 7-16 from an opening at 5½. Futures were fairly active above 7. The State Gas was quiet at 62@63, cents, and Southwestern Development drifted off to 22 cents on small trading. The better grade of curb stocks held steady.

MINING NOTES.

While copper metals is low, the output of Old Dominion will be maintained at about 2,000,000 pounds per month. It is expected that on this output the company can earn sufficient to make 10 per cent. on the par value of $2 per share.

The Boston Consolidated Copper Company is now producing its output at the rate of 10½ cents per pound. The local net production of copper for March was 1,200,000 pounds, as against 1,150,000 pounds of copper, net cost per pound, 10.51 cents.

While the question of North Butte dividends will not come before the board for a month and a half, the company's output of 2,000,000 pounds, under present conditions has led to the belief that dividends on the present rate of $4 per year would be maintained. Some shrinkage in values is to be expected, however, says there is no present reason for anticipating any reduction in the $1 rate at the next declaration.

WALL STREET NEWS

WALL STREET, New York, April 30.—Ignoring reports of improved business in the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific and elsewhere trade reports from the whole country, there has been a little distribution in high-priced stocks by the big people, but nothing of any consequence. This is due to some professional profit-taking and considerable short selling. Leading bankers say nothing more than a temporary reaction can take place at present, if, indeed, there should be any reaction worth considering.

$ $ $

Selling of Steel is not important enough to cause any alarm. It represented speculative profit taking. The important interests are not slugging, they are pursuing a Fabian policy in the matter of the future of the Steel and the market for its shares. An explanation was forthcoming for the remarkable strength of the shares shown in the form of a statement in an interview by the officer of the trust that the company could produce all grades of steel at from 12 per dary plant $5 a ton cheaper than any competitor.

$ $ $

Under ordinary circumstances these two rumors might be suspected to be part of a manipulative campaign, but in view of the new banking alliances made in behalf of the Gould system the public cannot afford to ignore them. It must always be remembered that Erie, Southern Railway and the Gould roads can all be made very profitable for their stockholders if they can get enough money to put them in good physical condition. Everything else in the railroad world has been well financed, and it is possible that these poor relations will now be taken care of.

$ $ $

Some disappointment is expressed because no announcement is forthcoming regarding the Gould financing, but the accumulation of Wabash that seems to be in progress points to an early statement in this regard. Some peculiar rumors in connection with the Gould properties are floating about Wall street. They cannot be officially confirmed, but are taken seriously in conservative quarters. One is to the effect that the Lackawanna has offered to buy control of Wabash on the basis of $50 for the common and 60 for the preferred, but the controlling interest will ask for 60 for the common and 80 for the preferred. Another story is that a prosperity trust company, with which E. H. Harriman is identified, holds options on 150,000 shares of Missouri Pacific at 80, this option having been given by the Gould interests some months ago. Those who gave the option say they have ceased to be worried by being recalled by paying a considerable sum of money.

$ $ $

In the fractions there is undoubtedly active stimulation. The delay in making a market movement is understood to be due to a desire on the part of insiders to get possession of the surface lines that are to be sold by the court on June 1. It can be said on the highest possible authority that there will be no postponement of this sale. Therefore, within about a month the worst will be known on the traction situation. The Interborough-Metropolitan will undoubtedly attempt to purchase the Metropolitan and Third Avenue at the referee's sale, and in the meantime stocks of these companies may prove fitting investments for the public. Persons close to the management insist that there is to be no dividend on Interborough-Metropolitan preferred in 1909, but they have as yet failed to show where the money is to come from. The chief bull argument in favor of these stocks seems to be the promise of honest management.

$ $ $

In view of the fact that the annual reports of the Amalgamated Copper Company and Anaconda Copper Company will be published soon, many traders do not care to take the long side of the copper stocks. It is well known that the annual reports of copper companies will prove anything than a bull argument. The West is a seller of stocks, according to commission houses doing a large interior business, but transactions from that section of the country are light. Western buying has been on a very limited scale for several weeks past.

BILLARD GETS IN BIG LOAN HERE

It is believed that John I. Billard has transferred his $11,000,000 loan on 110,000 shares of Boston & Maine stock from the National City Bank of New York to a Boston institution or institutions, probably the National Shawmut Bank.

About ten days ago Mr. Billard was in Boston and made inquiry of several banking institutions as to rates on an $11,000,000 loan on 110,000 shares of Boston & Maine stock for a year. The bankers replied that they would take the matter under advisement and notify him a little later. Mr. Billard at the same time stating that he must have his answer by May 1. A banker with the National Shawmut offered to loan the amount at 4 per cent., it is believed that the same with the National Shawmut has been negotiated at something under 4 per cent.

This step is connected in the public mind with the proposal of Governor Draper now before the Legislature looking to the erection of three $10,000 of Boston & Maine stations in Massachusetts towns, the company although the precise relationship between the items is not made clear.

GIANT ICEBERGS IMPERIL SHIPPING

Icebergs a mile long are drifting on the Grand Banks, right in the path of transatlantic steamships, and a report from the sealing fleets which go out there now for the seal pelt spring fishery of the Labrador Lancastrian, which arrived to-day from Liverpool, reports the first on last May day he passed four monster bergs on the Banks. One was a mile long and averaged 100 feet high. The four made a beautiful but unlawful picture, all placed on their faces and spires, but they constituted a deadly peril to all navigation in these waters. Captain Portray signalled all passing ships that the ice was present and sent notices to-day on his arrival at the various shipping headquarters for westbound traffic to beware of the floating danger.

RED SOX ARE TIED FOR SECOND LEAGUE PLACE; TO-DAY'S GAME IS OFF

The weather man got his signals mixed up a bit last night, and to-day resulting in gentle April showers sandwiched with a portion of December weather, which made the baseball game between the Red Sox and Senators from Washington, an impossibility.

This is another time when Mr. Weather man gets in bad with the fans for they were anxious to see the Red Legs in battle with the Cantillon brand and on account of the batting streak the locals have taken the bugs were all ready to see another slaughter and watch the Red Sox climb up on the Tigers.

Fred Lake says that the lay-off will not quit the sight of his players' batting eyes and that they will go right on with the winning streak. Cantillon of the Senators thinks a day's rest will greatly benefit his team for it has been playing quite regularly and had a tiring trip the most slight from Philadelphia. Cantillon says: "We'll put a stop to this heavy hitting the Red Sox are doing and in my opinion we will take the series. The percentage column shows my team in last place but we have had some tough contests and are due to win."

By reason of the last two victories over the Highlanders, the Red Sox have climbed up until now they stand on even terms with the New York pennant chasers. The Yankeries are still a good distance behind the Tigers but Manager Lake's plans are to keep right after the Detroit bunch and make them fight for the leadership of the American League.

Notes of the Red Sox Game

Oh, you Red Sox!

* * *

Two batting bees in a row. Sort of bad, eh?

* * *

It was an old-fashioned slugging affair, but, least so far as the Reds were concerned.

That's getting back into the best division in short order.

* * *

Niles got two put outs in the first inning. Speaker got the third, a high pop fly.

* * *

The Red Sox started early in the run getting, scoring two in the first.

* * *

The fans were surprised to see Jake Stahl wallop the ball to right field for two bases, not surprised that he could get safely, but Jake's favorite spot is to left field.

* * *

Mr. Umpire Egan was very touchy and after putting Kleinow out of the game, deloyed the contest while he reprimanded the players on the New York bench.

* * *

New York made its first hit in the third inning.

* * *

Boston got six hits and four runs in the first two innings.

* * *

This was "Doc" Newton's second drubbing at the hands of the Red Sox. He twirled in the first game of the series and was beaten 1 to 0.

* * *

Wagner beat out a pretty bunt in the third round, but was caught stealing on the next ball pitched.

* * *

Cicotte had a bad time in the fifth frame. Two singles and an error netted the visitors two tallies.

* * *

Newton took an ascension in the fifth but got out without having a run scored against him. He let two men walk and hit "Doc" Gessler in the back. However, he passed long enough in his mid career to run Stahl.

* * *

Corrigan certainly got around the circuit on easy terms in the sixth inning. He got to second on two errors by Knight, went to third on Austin's muff and went home on a passed ball by Blair.

* * *

Stallings will likely shake up his line up and run the Hilltoppers nipper again at the Huntington avenue grounds the club will have a different infield. Chase will be back at first base and Joe Ward is tipped as the second sacker. Knight probably will be left at short and Etherell will resume his work at the third corner.

* * *

Joe Lake will join the Highlanders at St. Louis and Jack Chesbro will report for duty on Monday. Hal Chase Day, in New York. Chesbro says that he is in the pink of condition and is ready to pitch whining ball from the start.

* * *

Umpire Eagan informed Catcher Kleinow that he could remain on the bench for the remainder of the game. The reason for this action is unknown but Jack took the punishment without a word of protest.

* * *

Just to show the fans that they could score a few more runs, the Reds made an other pair of tallies across in their last inning at bat.

* * *

Kleinow was in the game just long enough to have an error credited to him.

* * *

There were plenty of errors made by both sides. The locals slipped four times, while six misplays go down against the Yanks.

* * *

The Red Sox certainly fattened their batting averages in the last two contests.

* * *

Jack Knight, at short for the New Yorkers, could not hold anything in the sixth inning and made errors in a row.

* * *

The Yankees got to Cicotte for seven safeties while "Doc" Newton was touched up for an even dozen.

* * *

According to fans and players, Umpire Egan's sight was by the ball game.

* * *

Along in the middle of the game Newton either lightened up or the Reds quit hitting so furiously, for not a safe rap was made by the locals.

* * *

Tris Speaker batted in fine form, getting three hits out of four times up.

2 DARK HORSES IN MARATHON

NEW YORK, April 30.—Two dark horses in the $10,000 grand international Marathon which will be run at the polo grounds on Saturday afternoon, May 8, are already the talk of the town among the followers of the Marathon game. These are Chef the Frenchman, and Appleby, the English man.

Another foreigner is soon to invade these shores and will try to carry some of the United States coin away with him to his native heath, Australia. The individual in question is a long distance runner of note, the champion of the Kangaroo Isles and he comes with a record as long as a string of beans. He aspires to wear the crown now on the brow of one Henry St. Yves, the acknowledged Marathon champion of the world. Henry Price is the name of the man who would meet all of our crack runners. He has left his home in West Melbourne, Victoria, Australia, and will and here on May 12.

BOSTON DRIVER IS NOW IN PROVINCES

The former well-known Boston driver, S. A. Rockford, is in charge of the Valley Stables at Bisset, N. B., owned by C. W. Fowler, ex-M. P. The lot is headed by the thoroughbred stallion Watertight, one of the Jere Brunswick's Governor-bred importations from eKntucky. Rockford has broken this horse to harness and he makes a splendid driver.

The trotting-breds in the string are Baron Alston, a very promising three-year-old by Baron Dunraven; Euler, two years old, by Judge Wilkes, 2:20½; Grace Wilkes, pacer, by Abbot Wilkes, 2:11; Rockford, pacer, three years old, by Golden Morgan, Beatrice B., by Dufferin, and Joe R., a four-year-old stallion by Cornerstone (p), 2:18¾.

CHICAGO MAY BE MECCA OF BOXERS

CHICAGO, April 30.—Frenzied activity among pugilists is the result of news from Springfield that the Walsh boxing bill has been favorably reported to the House. If it passes it is expected that the fighting game will once more hold away in Chicago. Six-round bouts are provided for in the bill, and so far there has been no opposition manifested.

Decisions are barred and the manner in which the ring is to be padded is defined. The sale or gift of intoxicating liquor at any place where a bout is held is prohibited, and only amateurs are to be acquitted. There is one clause in the measure, however, which may or may not be the "joker." This is a paragraph confining the sport to "established" clubs or societies. Whether this means clubs already established or those which may be formed hereafter is not stated.

Should the bill will mean a sudden shift in the plans of many boxers who have been conducting their operations in the two coasts of late. McFarland and Nelson probably could draw as much in this city as on the Pacific Coast.

TECH TEAMS IN 2 HARD GAMES

Both Technology class baseball teams have good games scheduled for to-morrow afternoon. The Sophomores will take the longest trip ever taken by a Tech nine when they go to Wolfboro, N. H., to play the crack Brewster Academy bunch. Little is known of the Granite State boys, but the Tech team have improved greatly since the season opened, and a fast time will be handed the New Hampshire neighbors.

The Freshmen are up against Natick High School on their grounds. The school has been getting busy and will doubtless give the visitors all they want to take care of.

The probable line-ups of the Institute teams will be McAvoy, 2b.; Eicher, ss.; Avery, 1b.; Fowler, 3b.; Allen, rf. or c.; McGuire, cf.; Sloan, p. or rf.; Taylor, c.; Conlon, c. or p.; Whipple, cf.; Pearson, p. or cf.; Harrington, rf.; Williams, c.; Melville; Hufsmith, 2b.; O'Neill, 3b.; Parker, ss. or 2b.; McLaughlin, ss.; Metcalf, cf.; Stevens, rf.

FELLSWAY RACES AT COMBINATION PARK

President J. I. Brooks of the Fellsway Driving Club strikes a stiff field of horses with his trotting gelding, The Raven, in the matinee to-morrow at Combination Park, Medford, as opposing him is Christian, Shimosa, Black Bess and Wild Fern.

The race committee have planned it necessary to place the trotter Axtelloid against pacers, as his easy victories this year have left him superior to the other trotters owned by the club members. The Amy case should be one of the best of the card, judging by the battle this field put up a week ago. The entries:

Class A, Trot and Pace—Axtelloid, c. g., Mr. Brooks; Pat L., b. g., Mr. Whitney; Billy Bell, b. g., Mr. Richardson; Black Jack, blk. g., Mr. Fenning.

WELCH BALKS ON BOSTON REFEREES

NEW YORK, April 30.—Joe Humphreys, manager of Freddie Welch, who is to fight Jimmy Dunn in Boston Tuesday night wants a referee who will be satisfactory to Welch. He declares that, while he fully believes that all the Boston referees are thoroughly honest in their decisions, they are liable to make mistakes, and he wants his man to be satisfied with the third man in the ring before the contest begins.

JUNIORS LOOK LIKE WINNERS IN TECH MEET

Keen competition will be the rule at Tech Field to-morrow afternoon, when the classes line up for the contest which will decide the athletic championship of the Institute.

The Junior Class is the most probable winner, as 1910 already has 33 points to their credit, as a result of the indoor meet. The Freshmen have 20½ points, the Seniors have 17½ and the Sophomores 17. The championship goes to the class with the greatest total from the indoor and outdoor meets combined.

Captain C. W. Gram, 1909, who was clocked in 50 2-5 seconds for his quarter in the relay race at Philadelphia, should have little trouble in picking the 440-yard men.

H. H. Hunnewell, 1909, is the most promising candidate for the cup. He is a veteran cross-country man and has run some excellent mile and two-mile races and was a member of the two-mile relay team that beat Tufts last October.

P. B. White, 1911, holder of the indoor record for the half-mile, is running the quarter now, and this will leave the half to be fought out by P. Eldred, 1911; H. Lorkett, 1910, and R. H. Allen, 1909. There will be class spleny in the easy and furlong dashes, with the largest field that has ever entered these events at Tech. The weight events are a source of considerable speculation as the indications as little is known of the material in these events. The high jump will be fought out by R. H. Allen, 1909; P. W. Butterpaugh, 1912, and E. Stuart, 1910. W. D. Allen, 1911, who holds both indoor and outdoor records for the pole vault, is in a class by himself, but will leave plenty of chance for an interesting contest between Sollaway, Becker and Gott for the other places. Orr, 1910, and Becker, 1912, are also good at the broad jump and should get places.

PACIFIC CREW NOT IN HUDSON RIVER REGATTA

NEW YORK, April 30.—The board of stewards of the intercollegiate Rowing Association has made it known that no Far West crew would be seen at Poughkeepsie this year.

The association expressed some time ago a willingness to invite to the regatta of Poughkeepsie the winning crew in an association of college crews that might be formed of California, Stanford and Washington.

They were expected to form an association, but they did not, and therefore no invitation was extended.

It is understood that the stewards rather resented the actions of one of the Pacific coast colleges anyway and that some friction might have been caused had this college come East as the winner.

The drawings for courses for the colleges that are in the regatta will be made some time late in May.

There has been some discussion recently about an oarsman of one of the prominent Pacific colleges who was believed to be ineligible for the seat he occupied last year, and who for that matter still would be ineligible on the same team.

Dennis S. Runge, the Columbia member of the Board of Stewards, said yesterday he was all the facts of the case and that the man was eligible to row.

HITCH OVER PACKEY-NELSON COAST BOUT

The McFarland-Nelson fight for the lightweight championship of the world, scheduled for July 5, may never be decided. Harry Gilmore, Jr., manager for Packey, yesterday issued an ultimatum to Nelson which may result in the calling off of the match.

Nelson has not deposited his $5,000 forfeit as yet, while McFarland's money has been up for several days. Gilmore has informed Nelson that he must put up his money by May 30 or the scheduled battle will be called off.

Nelson, it is understood, is properly poor just at present. He is said to have all his money tied up in such a manner that he cannot raise $5,000. The champion at present is in the East filling theatrical engagements, which probably will yield him the needed money, if it is true that he cannot raise it otherwise.

BOXING BOUTS.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 30.—Fred Cooley, the Chicago heavyweight, was knocked out by Reed of Toledo in the ninth round.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Charlie Twin Miller of Boston beat Kid Locke of this city in six rounds at the Broadway A. C. Charley Harvey of Chicago beat Yankee Swartz after six fast, scientific rounds.

REGULAR NAVY NIGHT AT NEXT ARMORY SHOW

It will be a regular Navy night at the next show of the Armory Club, on Tuesday, as every bout on the card will have a boxer who one time or another saw service on the battleships.

Dave Deshler, in the main item on the bill, shows his class by the tattooed ship on his breast. It's a common cry of his enemies at the ringside to yell for his opponent to sink the ship, but it's a pretty staunch vessel, and Freddy Welsh, the English boy, who is the classiest lightweight seen here since Bat Nelson trod the streets, will find that before he can claim to be a dispatcher for the Dane he must reckon with the Cambridge slasher.

Welsh had a hard time beating Young Donahue, who met him without any training at New Orleans, and local fans know that Deshler is every bit as good as the Roxbury fast stepper.

Billy Shevlin, one of the finest light weights ever developed in the Navy, will battle Tom Foley of South Boston, who won a hard match from Otto Manfell at the last show.

Walter Altieri, recently of the U. S. S. Missouri, and his old rival, Andrew Morris of East Boston, are down for a six-round go. Morris was not satisfied with the way the decision went against him on the last occasion.

INDIANA TO PUT NO BAR ON BOXING

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 30.—Governor Marshall of Indiana is not going to stop the fighting game in this State, as was reported here. Boxing can progress, he says, so long as the contests are properly conducted. On this promise the bouts schedule to be held at the Indianapolis A. C. will be carried out.

The Governor and Prosecutor Hooton have had a conference on the general subject. Both the Governor and the prosecutor are inclined, it is said, to recognize the difference between the art of boxing and prize fighting.

"Boxing," said Governor Marshall, "is taught in the best universities and colleges in the country and is recognized everywhere as a manly sport. I believe it is. But often the lines between boxing and prize fighting are obliterated in the public mind.

"Neither I nor Mr. Hooton is inclined to presuppose the commission of an offense in handling the situation, but when Mr. Hooton has evidence of prize fighting in Marion County I am convinced that he will do his duty."

M'GRAW IN DANGER OF BLOOD POISONING

NEW YORK, April 30.—Manager John McGraw will not accompany the Giants to Philadelphia. The little manager's injured hand, which has threatened a severe case of blood poisoning, is giving him so much trouble that his physicians ordered a complete rest.

John L. Sullivan's Column

There appears to be as much of a flurry over the heavyweight championship of Uncle Sam's Navy as over the world's title, for there are several claimants for the high position, but the field probably dwindles down to the pair, Walter Altieri, the Italian fighter, and Philip Schlossberg, who is now connected with the U. S. S. New Jersey. Altieri has retired from service as a sea fighter and entered the professional pugilistic arena. He has plans to the heavyweight title, but Schlossberg, in a clean cut letter endeavors to prove that it is he who is the rightful possessor of the regalia. This is what he says:

"I understand that Altieri, a sailor formerly on the U. S. S. Missouri, has stated that he beat me in a bout which took place two years ago, on May 7, 1907, to be exact, which is not so. This bout in which he claims to have beaten me took place in Hampton Roads, Virginia, on board the battleship Connecticut. There were fully 2,000 spectators there to see the bout, so there is plenty of evidence if needed to convince anybody who was the real winner.

"In the middle of the third round I dropped him three times, causing such an uproar that Admiral Robert D. Evans, who was at the ringside, ordered the fight stopped, while Altieri was flat on his back at the count of eight. The referee declared me the winner and I was duly congratulated by the Admiral for beating the former champion. This was a great fight and I hate to be robbed of the credit that is due me for beating this fellow, who was but a youngster.

"You need not believe what I say here, but can write to the U. S. S. Connecticut at New York and ask anyone from the captain down in regard to this fight. They all remember it.

"Then I had two other fights with Altieri, which resulted as follows: October 24, 1907, draw, ten rounds, and April 28, 1908, I won a six-round decision at Los Angeles."

The baseball situation is beginning to get interesting and speaks to all the Boston fans as the Red Sox and the Doves are so close to the top. It's about time that the other clubs recognized that my old home town could turn out winners, and I believe that Manager Bowerman and Manager Lake will make good this season.

The depo artists rated the Boston teams pretty low before the race began, but like all games of chance the odds have changed considerably and there is some hedging being done all along the line.

The teams which made a big flourish at the getaway are now having their troubles in hanging on and the real teams are beginning to assert themselves in earnest. Several clubs have been dealt hard luck blows at the start and naturally are up against it and the others are making the most of the situation in the race for front.

The cold weather teams have been in their element, but there is plenty of time ahead and only the stayers will be there and I can't see where the Boston teams have any the worst of it in sizing up their progress to date.

Answers to Letters.

CAN CUBS WIN AGAIN AS OLD BOSTON DID?

Can the Chicago National League team win the pennant this year, duplicating the feat of the old Boston club, the only organization to win the flag four consecutive years?

Boston, under Harry Wright, copped the flag in 1872, '73, '74 and '75. No other team has succeeded in duplicating the feat. Chicago won it in 1880, '81 and '82. Boston won it in 1891, '92 and '93; Baltimore in 1894, '95 and '96; Pittsburg in 1901, '02 and '03, and Chicago has grabbed it for the past three years.

But, try as they would, these three-time winners could not win the much-coveted flag the fourth year.

Frank Chance, manager of the Cubs expects to break the jinx and he should prove that the performance of Harry Wright and his Boston world-beaters is not impossible. The Cub leader may be able to repeat the trick, but baseball today is not the game it was in the '70's, and there are surface indications that the invincible champions may soon die from disintegration, with Pittsburg and New York coming stronger than ever.

WHY NEARLY ALL USEFUL PLAYS FAIL—Read what Alan Dale says in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

MORAN TO BOX ATTELL

NEW YORK, April 30.—Charley Harvey has finally decided to let Owen Moran fight Abe Attell, and to-day announced that Moran would accept Attell's weight, 124, at 5 o'clock, and fight him from one to forty-five rounds.

THE INVISIBLE LINE BETWEEN FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE---By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1909, by American Journal-Examiner

A MATRON who has two marriageable young men relatives in her household is anxious to know "just how far a man may go in his attentions to young women without being considered serious. By "serious" she means "with matrimonial intent."

In view of the alarming frequency of breach of promise suits, it is not to be wondered at that young men are desirous of knowing what course to pursue in this peculiar country of ours. I say "peculiar" because in no other country are young women allowed such latitude of conduct. In no other country could a matron or a matron ask such a question as this seriously.

In all other lands young women of station and respectability are looked after by parents, guardians and chaperons. A no man can proceed beyond the point of courtesies and gallantries of dinner and ball and luncheon without being an acknowledged suitor for the girl's hand. Here such rules are observed by only a few of the most conventional families.

In every town, large or small, in America there is a large class of well-educated, accomplished young women living with well-to-do and reputable parents, who now them absolute freedom in their association with men; and there is another large class of "bachelor girls" in the arts and professions living without protection, save that of their own instincts.

Seldom Abuses Her Freedom

All these young women receive callers unchaperoned, and attend theatres and lectures and suppers with young men, and retain their good names and usually make excellent wives and mothers.

It is to the credit of American womanhood to say, as it can truthfully be said, that not one of these girls in ten disgraces her name by misusing her freedom. But it is because of this freedom accorded her that young men are sometimes placed in a delicate position, and one requiring infinite tact and discretion.

Hundreds of young, struggling business or professional men, who are not in a position to forge all the responsibilities of marriage like to enjoy the companionship of agreeable women.

They have dollars enough for a little dinner, a theatre once or twice a week, a drive, or an opera with a musically inclined companion, but they have not the wherewithal to rent and furniture and a wife's wardrobe.

Just how far may men so situated go in their attentions to the independent young women of America seems to be the problem. Yet it need not be the problem if the young man has good taste and a quick mind, and a knowledge of human nature.

Man Must Use Judgment

He should be able to realize very soon in his acquaintance whether the young woman is inclined to take his attentions too seriously, and he should find a thousand tactful and delicate ways to retreat from the association without wounding her sensibilities, if he finds her attaching too much importance to his attentions.

No man has a right to claim the frequent and exclusive attentions of a woman for any length of time unless he intends to ask her to be his wife eventually.

It is every woman's privilege in this land of the free to study and become acquainted with a number of respectable men before she makes her final choice. No man should block her way and keep more serious suitors from approaching her, when he does not contemplate marriage.

The man who realizes for any reason that he will not be in a position to marry for five or ten years should avoid identifying himself with any one young woman. Friendly calls and courteous attentions should be shared by a congenial circle, not monopolized by one.

It is, too, a simple matter for a sensible man to so direct his conversation that he is understood by all women to be a man seeking friendships with the sex in general, not love from the one.

Gifts between men and women should be of rare occurrence, and it is wise for giver and recipient when they are of a perishable nature. And when man takes his turn in hand to indite a letter to woman, or woman to man, let the good angel of Caution perch upon his or her shoulder; otherwise little lines of malice who dwell in courtrooms may derive amusement thereafter.

Let every man treat every young woman of his acquaintance exactly as he would want his sister or his daughter treated by all other men. That is the only rule he needs to follow.

The Every-Day Woman Is NOT to Be Pitied

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE is not beautiful, as far as features go, but she is beautiful in the expression that sweetness and nobility of love lend to her steadfast eyes and tender face.

She is not marvellously clever, but she knows just how to hold the love of the husband and children, around whom all her ambitions centre.

Her face may be lined by many anxious visits over restless little fever-racked bodies, her hands roughened by toil for those she loves, but her blessed mother heart is as fresh and pure and eager as a child's.

Or perhaps she is not a mother, nor a wife, but just a loving woman with a heart big enough to hold the joys and sorrows of others and to sympathize with them.

But, whatever her station in life, thank God, she is not scarce; there are millions of her type.

Doesn't Long for Career

The every-day woman is the homemaker, and she is not restlessly seeking a career and stretching out groping, unsatisfied hands for the unknown. What she wants is love and home, and fortunately for her she usually gets it.

The every-day woman is the backbone of the world.

If she is a mother, she rears her children wisely and tenderly, teaching her sons to be honorable, manly men, and her daughters to be good women.

If she is not a mother she is interesting herself in the cause of her sex and taking an intelligent stand on the issues of the day. She may like pretty clothes, but she is not frivolous, and she is not so complex but that her friends may understand her; and she is not brilliant but loving.

I do not know that the every-day woman ever inspires a great passion, but she does inspire a very true and lasting affection.

She Is to Be Congratulated

Men of genius usually fall in love with women of the average type. It may be a question of the law of opposites—restfulness and peace appeal strongly to the nervous, excitable mind of genius.

The average woman has her hours of depression, when she feels that she is commonplace and envies her more brilliant and beautiful sisters.

But she need not feel that way, for the world could not get on without her. Her sweetness and common sense are indispensable to mankind in the making.

The every-day girl is wise when she tries to beautify herself, for every woman has the right to make the most of herself, but she should never try to be witty; wit must be spontaneous.

She is good and she is sweet and she is intelligent, and men revere and love her. The every-day woman is not to be pitied, but congratulated.

Over the Hills and Far Away

By NORA CHESSON HOPPPER

LAST night, last night, in the dark of the moon
Into my dreams slid a fairy tune—
It slew the dreams that I dreamed of him,
With its moonshine music, faint and dim.
What tune should the fairy pipers play
But "Over the hills and far away"?

THE music called to my idle feet,
And O! the music was wild and sweet!
I left my dreams and my lonely bed,
And followed afar where the music led—
And never a tune did the pipers play
But "Over the hills and far away."

"OVER the hills and far away"—
What love has tenderer words to say?
Love that liveth or love that's dead?
Hills that are far away are fair,
And I followed the ghost of my lover there.

WE danced all night in a silent band,
I and my lover, hand in hand;
We danced, for know till the dew was dry
That deep sleep! Dead and love slept I—
We took no thought of the coming day
Over the hills and far away.

MY eyes are blind with the growing light,
And O my grief that the day was night—
For my heart is broke for all my eyes,
And all day long in my ears there cries
The tune of the faery pipes that play
"Over the hills and far away."

Not Meaning Any Harm

It's as effective in making trouble as having one's heart in the right place!

By Kennett Harris

"THERE hain't a right smart o' difference 'twixt them fellers an' the kind that don't mean no harm, as far as gin'ral effects goes," remarked Washington Hancock, sagely. "The man whose heart's in the right place ain't gin'rally as big as a cussed fool, that's all. I'd about as lieve have one around me as the other."

"You don't hold with good intentions, then?" queried the storekeeper.

"Not when there ain't good sense behind 'em," replied Hancock, cutting a large corner from a twelve-inch plug of tobacco and stowing it, ape-like, in the pouch of his cheek.

"I've heard folks say that you didn't mean no harm yourself, Wash," said Old Man Somerbody, inobtusingly.

"They'd have changed their minds if I'd heard 'em," declared Hancock, with emphasis. "But I had quite a considerable to do one time with one o' them boneyes," he went on. "He took a sort of a notion to me an' he was always a-follerin' me around. It give me nervous chills."

"Seems like to me you'd have took it as a compliment," remarked the storekeeper. "I hain't noticed nobody follerin' you around here."

"That's because I pay my way an' don't owe nobody," explained Hancock. "But this yer Valentine Sprengel was the beatin'est you ever heard tell of. He was for everlastingly gosh' around things he hadn't got no business with, an' meddlin' with what he didn't understand, an' Ol' Man Trouble ain't never far off from fellers like that.

Val Always Was Unlucky

"I remember when Charley Hicks opened up his carpenter shop an' put in a lathe an' a jigsaw an' a little circ'lar for rippin' out mouldin' stuff. All that there machinery was kind o' new to the folks, particular so Charley had rigged up a wheel in the crick an' got it connected with a shaft that run the belt contraption; so one time an' another everybody had to be showed around. That's how come Valentine lost the top of his right hand down as far as his knuckles.

"Charley was right wrathy about that. 'Doggone you! Didn't I tell you?' he says. 'Think I'm operatin' a sausage machine? An' look at the bones you've got the frame in! I'll have to go to work an' plane it all off.'

"I'm sorry,' says Valentine. 'I didn't mean no harm.'

"'Well,' says Charley, 'if you're all bandaged now, you can pick up your fingers an' get out of here afore you do any more damage.'

"Got the papers for that, Wash?" asked Elon Baxter.

"I don't need no papers," replied Hancock. "If you don't b'lieve me, you go down to Nodaway an' ask anybody you like. You ask 'em about Val Sprengel. He was a long-legged, tow-headed, buttermilk-eyed coot with a laugh like one o' these yer hyenas.

"He's dead now, but they'll remember. You'll hear about the time he went up to St. Jose an' blew out the gas in his room there.

"Was that what killed him?" asked Old Man Somerbody.

"No, that didn't kill him," replied Hancock. "It might have, though, if he'd stayed in his room. As it was, he went down to the office an' stretched himself out on a couple o' chairs.

"They didn't keep no night clerk there, so they didn't find him until mornin'. When they woke him up an' asked him why he didn't sleep in his bed like a Christian, he said if they'd find out what was dead an' forgotten in that room of his an' give it decent burial he'd consider the proposition.

"But s'posen that had been a double-bedded room an' another feller in it," He'd have said he 'didn't mean no harm,' same as he did when he scared Lem Pickey's kid into convulsions tellin' it pretty boogerman stories.

"No," continued Hancock, reflectively, "he didn't mean no harm when he put a burr under the saddle of Lafe Jones's horse. He allowed the horse'd jump around a little, an' s'prise Lafe, an' amuse the crowd; he didn't figger on no broken legs or collar bones. Lafe goes around with a limp yet on account o' that little joke.

"Another time he gave his wife carbolic acid, thinkin' it was painkiller. I reckon the Grand Jury would have indicted anybody else, but they knew Val never meant no harm.

"Sure enough, I don't believe he wanted to get rid of his wife, any more than any married man naturally would. Of course, I couldn't help feelin' relieved when he was called hence, but I'll give Val his due."

Might Have Known He Would

"Did he die a natural death?" asked the storekeeper.

"Perfectly natural," replied Hancock. "I was goin' out a-fishin' in a skiff one day, an' he come along an' wanted to go with me. I didn't want to let him at first, but he begged, an' I finally gave in an' let him.

"That tickled him plum to death an' he began actin' if more an' more hilarious until standin' up an' rockin' the boat was the only way he could express his feelin's. I can't exactly say he done it a-purpose, but all I could do was hold on to the sides o' the skiff an' bollye at him.

"'Rock-a-by, baby, on the tree top,' he sings, an' then he laffs in that hyena way he had.

"'Quit it, you crazy yahoo!' I yelled.

"'Re-new, Margery Daw,' he sings, an' rocks harder'n ever. Then all of a sudden he lost his balance an' went over. There was a powerful splash, an' then a few bubbles come up where he went down.

"He looked quite peaceful an' happy when they finely got him. There was some smart Alecks that tried to make a connection 'twixt a bump on his head an' a place where one o' my oars had got splintered, but 'ardsh' ever come of it. Everybody knew that Val jest nachelly was the kine that would rock a boat."

The man that's everlastingly nosin' a round things he hain't got no business with is allus lettin' Ol' Man Trouble out of the box.

After Midnight

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

LOOK here, you midnight reveller! I little like the way
You emulate the wanton owl, and turn night into day!
The moon has hurried off to rest, for fear the dawn shall break,
And, in its path, the morning sun shall find her still awake.
The bat has hooked his hammock up, and swung himself to sleep,
And o'er the hilltops in the east the rosy sunbeams creep;
But you still blink your sleepless eyes although the night is spent,
All hover to the sheltering trees and close their beady eyes.
A view the stern, accusing clock with humorous content.

HAVE you not learned, in all your years
They number nearly two—
That night time should be slumber time
For little chaps like you?
As soon as twilight shade shines out, the birds and butterflies
The rabbits curl up in the nests they burrowed safe and deep,
Beyond the reach of Brother Fox, and journeyed off to sleep;
But you defy all nature's laws; you take your wakeful ease
While I, forsooth, must wait on you—and all because you please.

WHAT'S this? Has morning's soft caress descended on you, too?
Upon your little cheek I see a tiny drop of dew!
Oho! A tear! Come, come, old man, you need not close your eyes
Until the sun has turned to blue those gray and shadowy skies.
Sit here beside the window, and await the coldly sun,
And I will bear you company till slumber comes along.
Quite soon enough remorseless time will disillusion bring,
Till then your will is law, and you shall reign while you are King.

You Can Trust the Women

To the Editor of the AMERICAN:

A correspondent of the AMERICAN says that if women had the ballot, they would always vote for the best looking man. We have just had a striking proof that this is not true. The women of Denver lately re-elected Ben B. Lindsey as judge of the Juvenile Court, over the heads of both the political machines. It is well known that the famous "little judge" is no beauty; but he had proved himself a friend to the children, and the mothers evidently thought that "handsome is as handsome does."

"How?"

"He wrote a verse to an heiress he was in love with, and he wrote 'boney' for 'bonny.'"

The Manicure Lady's Hunch About Abdul

"I FEEL awful sorry for the poor old Sultan," said the Manicure Lady.

"And I hope, George, that you won't think I'm mawkish."

"I ain't sorry for the Sultan," persisted the Head Barber. "When everything was breaking his way he didn't have sense enough to know it. Now that the armies is battering at the gates he has lost his nerve and is crying like the man that was sorry because he beat his wife."

"But you ain't on the inside," explained the Manicure Lady. "I did the nails of a Young Turk this morning and got some paddock information while I was polishing the tips of his paddies. He told me that the old Suit wasn't so bad after all. And on the low down, George, it don't seem reasonable to think that the old scout is all to the bad.

"You know yourself how it is with a lot of the big leaguers. Look at the guy which owns this tonsorial palace, for instance. Didn't all you chinsearpers have him sized up for a cold-blooded skirt until you put him to the test? Didn't you all say that he wouldn't kick in with a cent if one of you was starving. And then, when the barber in the next chair's yours lost his wife, didn't the old captain come across with three hundred smacks in yellow bills?

"Listen here, George—I'm against the anarchists. I'm only a young girl, not much more than out of my teens, for which I suppose the teens is thankful, but I can't be sore on the boss when the boss is playing fair with me. Maybe the Sultan is a bad actor, maybe the King of England is a wart, maybe the man which hires you is a close-fisted miser, but as for me, when I find the old envelope waiting for me every Saturday night, without fail, rain or shine, I kind of warm up to the bosses. Not to mention the tips. It's a pretty sweet world, George; too sweet to be smeared with slaughter."

"Why the chirping?" asked the Head Barber, whose wife had scrapped with him that very morning. "Why the optimistic stuff?"

"I just can't help singing," said the Manicure Lady. "I just can't keep from being happy."

"Neither can a monkey in the Park Zoo," said the Head Barber.

"I only hope," declared the Manicure Lady, "that something will come up pretty quick to make you good and pessimistic, such as a teamster coming in with wire whiskers. As for me, let the dead past bury its dead. I'm going home now, George, and I hope that when I come in to-morrow I won't meet the prize grouch. Bah! Men ain't game!"
